Lumumba Fate Mystery as Soviets Pull Out of Congo

Cuba Limits Envoy To Havana Region

U. S. May Ease Restrictions On Khrushchev

Russian Can Go To Soviet Estate If He Makes Request

New York — The state department now may lift the travel ban just enough to permit Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev to visit his country's large estate on Long Island.

Khrushchev, due here next week to attend the annual meeting of the United Nations General assembly, had been restricted behind Manhattan's neon curtain as a security measure.

State department officials in Washington said yesterday they may permit the Soviet leader to visit the big Soviet estate at Glen Cove, Long Island—if he specifically asks to go.

Security officials, however, are opposed to any unrestricted travel to and from the estate, which is about 20 air miles from the U.N. headquarters in Manhattan.

Khrushchev could spend a weekend relaxing at the estate, but could not hold a reception or make propaganda hay during any Long Island visit, officials intimated.

Meanwhile, preparations to guard communist and Cuban delegates to the fifteenth general assembly session were stepped up. Police Chief Stephen P. Kennedy said that 26,000 men—about one-third of the police force—have been assigned to prevent disorders at the United Nations.

Another precaution, common to the Cuban delegates, is being notified by the state department that neither they nor their bodyguards will be permitted to carry guns during their visit here.

Retaliates for Restrictions On Castro in U. S.; Takes Over 3 American-Owned Banks

BY RICHARD VETERIANI

Havana — Fidel Castro's government today slapped tight restrictions on movements of U. S. Ambassador Philip Bonsal in Havana in retaliation for the U. S. curb on the Cuban prime minister's travels during the U. N. General assembly.

The diplomatic quarantine capped a series of anti-American measures taken on the eve of Castro's departure for New York.

Armed militiamen last night seized three American-owned banks operating on the island.

The Castro government whipped up a new international furor by ordering the expulsion of an attractive U. S. Embassy secretary, Mrs. Marjorie Lennox, on spy charges. Three other North Americans were ordered expelled on the same charges. They were identified as Mario Nordio, an Italian born U. S. citizen, his wife, Mary, and Robert L. Neet, another U. S. embassy employee.

Foreign Minister Raul Roa told Bonsal he was restricted to the Havana area where the embassy is situated and to going to and from his residence.

Indict Gambler For Tax Evasion

Los Angeles — Mickey Cohen, who already has shown that death can be easier to escape than taxes, is under federal indictment again.

He is accused of evading $347,000 in income taxes.

The tubby, 47-year-old former gambling kingpin was arrested on the 13-count indictment at his west Los Angeles apartment yesterday and later released on $25,000 bond.

Cohen, nearly killed in a gangland ambush in the late 40s, served a 31-year prison term in the 50s for evasion of income taxes.

Milwaukee Jeweler Held Up by 3 Men

Milwaukee — Three men held up a wholesale jewelry firm on the second floor of a building on Milwaukee's busiest corner late Friday and escaped with $1,800 in cash and jewelry valued at about $50,000.

The holdup was staged by a man dressed as a mailman and two men who wore women's stockings over their faces.

Deputy Inspector of Detectives Harold Brier said the holdup of the Tanzer Jewelry company, in the Empire building at W. Wisconsin and N. Plankinton avenues, was "a well planned job by professionals."

Asked for Diamonds

The man dressed as a mailman made an appointment with Henry L. Tanzer, 67, the owner of the firm, by telephone. He entered the establishment about 4:15 p.m. with several watches he wanted appraised.

The man pushed a gun into his back and the two men wearing masks entered with drawn guns.

The trio produced rolls of adhesive tape and bound Tanzer and two clerks, Mrs. Thelma Wagner, 60, and Mrs. Shirley Schrage, 33. They rifled the safe of diamonds, jewelry and cash and fled.

Mrs. Schrage freed herself and ran outside for help but the men had disappeared.

UN Assembly Will Meet on Congo Problem

Emergency Session Called for Tonight After Soviet Veto

United Nations, N. Y. — The 62-nation general assembly was summoned today for an emergency session on the Congo problem after a Soviet veto blocked action in the security council.

The meeting will be convened at 7 p. m. CDT tonight, just three days before the scheduled opening of the regular session with its all-star cast of top-level leaders.

The United States requested the meeting in a dramatic move in the early morning hours as the 11-nation council wound up three days of futile debate in which Sec. Gen. Dag Hammarskjold was attacked by the Russians and defended by the west.

The move was triggered by a Soviet veto of a resolution, sponsored by Ceylon and Tunisia, giving Hammarskjold a go-ahead on his Congo policies and urging that no military aid be sent to the Congo except through the United Nations. It was the 90th veto cast by the Soviet Union.

Wadsworth Raps Reds

Western diplomats had confidently passed the word that they expected the Russians to abstain, but they were ready, just in case. The vote was 8 to 2—the Soviet Union being joined by Poland and France abstaining.

Ambassador James J. Wadsworth, U. S. chief delegate, took the floor.

"The Soviet Union," he said, "has just shown the lengths to which it will go in opposition to effective United Nations assistance for the Republic of the Congo."

"We are not willing to concede failure simply because of a Soviet veto. We believe that the United Nations must take action to provide funds for the Congo. It must take action to protect the Congo against attempts at subversion," he added.

Unverified Reports Say He Is Dead, Others Call Him Refugee With Russians

BY LYNN HEINZERLING

Leopoldville, the Congo — Patrice Lumumba, the ousted premier of the Congo, has disappeared from view. The disappearance is so out of character for fiery, flamboyant Lumumba that reports he is dead—completely unconfirmed officially—swept this capital today.

One report said he was shot while trying to escape after slipping out of his official residence yesterday only to be arrested and carted away toward prison outside Leopoldville. There was some support for this story from a source close to President Joseph Kasavubu, but vital details were lacking and officials unreachable for comment.

Another report had it that Lumumba might have taken refuge in the Soviet embassy in the hope of leaving the country with the Russians.

The hammer and sickle flag came down at the embassy this morning and Ambassador Mikhail D. Yakovlev went to the airport, as ordered by Kasavubu.

The ambassador and all other Russians and Czechs, including Czech Ambassador Joseph Virius, were ordered expelled from the country after Col. Joseph Mobutu seized power for the army three days ago.

The Russians and Czechs maintained the only permanent diplomatic missions of the Congo.

New Strike May Hit Pennsylvania Road

Union Protests Against Abolition of 229 Jobs

Philadelphia — The chairman of the brotherhood, Pennsylvania railroad, still said the PRR had told the 229 employees in a notice that, "We regret . . . to advise you that your position is abolished at the beginning of your duty on Thursday, Sept. 15."

The Pennsy spokesman said the word "abolished" was a technical phrasing required by the union contract.

"Abolished in this case means furloughed," the spokesman said. "When men have an employment status like these men do and they're not working, they're either disabled or furloughed. They'll be called back to work as soon as business warrants it, a good many probably sometime next week."

Of the men involved, 120 are in the freight claims department and 109 are in the accounting department. The brotherhood represents 26,000 of the PRR's 74,000 employees.

The railroad spokesman noted that the PRR had said when a strike by the Transportation Workers and System Federation unions ended Monday it would be 6 to 10 days before freight business would be normal.

Union Considers Case's Proposal For Ending Strike

Racine — An official of the United Auto Workers announced this morning, after an all-day and all-night meeting with J. I. Case company negotiators, that the latest company proposal to end the strike of Local 180 will be taken to the membership Sunday.

Sam Rizzo, international representative of the UAW, would release no details of the proposals. He said the members would meet at 2 p. m. Sunday to vote on it.

Man Soon in Space?

U. S. Astronauts Prepare but Russians May Get There First

Cape Canaveral, Fla. — into orbit late in 1961 and be Russia may soon attempt a manned space launching. Grissom donned a space America's astronauts are suit and climbed into a mod-looking confidently toward the first U.S. manned flight early next year.

The deployment of several Soviet ships around the globe has raised speculation that Russia may try to place a man in orbit to coincide with Premier Khrushchev's arrival at the United Nations next week.

"We hope they don't beat us to it," American Astronaut Scott Carpenter told newsmen yesterday. "We'd naturally like to be first."

Press Conference

Carpenter and his fellow spaceman trainees talked for the first time with reporters at the new National Aeronautics and Space Administration central control building here. This will be the nerve center when a U.S. space pilot is sent aloft.

The other astronauts are: Leroy G. Cooper, 34; John H. Glenn, 38; Virgil I. Grissom, 33; Walter M. Schirra, 36; Alan B. Shepard, 36, and Donald K. Slayton, 35.

Orbit Late in 1961?

NASA had hoped to send ships. The speculation is that the stone-boasted ballistic flight 120 miles up and about 200 miles down the Atlantic missile range late this year. The flight is now expected in January or February.

York for the United Nations General assembly.

It also would mean that the world would have two significant space attempts in a brief period of time.

That's just where a Soviet satellite might pass if it followed the same path as Soviet rockets in the past. A capsule ejected by such a satellite probably would fall into the ocean near the two Soviet ships. The speculation is that the stone-boasted ballistic flight 120 miles up and about 200 miles down the Atlantic missile range late this year. The flight is now expected in January or February.

Used Customers' Money

Boston — Anthony E. Homsey, 55-year-old partner in a Boston brokerage firm, was charged last night with using—and losing—more than $500,000 of the customers' money.

Homsey, a thin, bespectacled man, waived examination before U.S. Commissioner Francis Farrell. He was released in $10,000 bail for No date was set.

He was charged with "hypothecating" or borrowing against securities owned by customers of DuPont, Homsey and company.

The securities and exchange commission said the securities involved later were sold by banks and finance companies from which Homsey had borrowed in satisfaction of the loans.

DuPont, Homsey and company was suspended Sept. 9 from the New York Stock Exchange. Exchange directors said the firm "is in such financial condition that it cannot be permitted to continue in business with safety to its creditors."

Stock Exchange President G. Keith Funston said in New York the exchange board of governors will meet Sept. 27 to consider charges that Homsey, a member of the exchange, "committed fraud or fraudulent acts by pledging securities of certain customers without their consent."

The SEC said it will seek appointment of a receiver for the Homsey firm. It said one affidavit filed in the case "recites admissions by Homsey that he was solely responsible for the unlawful activities."

Assistant U. S. Atty. Joseph S. Mitchell, Jr., sought the $10,000 figure, charging Homsey with "manipulative and descriptive dealings" in which customers of his firm "suffered large monetary losses."

Firemen Called When Bearing Box Overheats

The POWER of FAITH

Gen. Henry Martyn Robert, a devout Christian who built the great sea wall at Galveston, Tex., possessed the methodical mind of an engineer. He was dismayed at the disorder that prevailed at public meetings, particularly those of his church, for there was no standard procedure to govern assemblies in the late 19th Century. And so he devoted many years to perfecting Robert's Rules of Order, which are still in use today. Gen Robert helped finance publication of his book and devoted the profits of a later book to medical missions. He once refused payment for a college lecture saying: "I have had all the compensation I expect or desire in the consciousness that I have done what I could to stimulate the students to study the Bible. A man who knows anything is in debt to those who are less fortunate and he can only pay the debt by imparting the knowledge."

CAREFUL HANDLING OF SMALL CHILDREN RECOMMENDED

A recent article entitled "Handle me easily daddy," by Dr. F. Lee Lemly, enumerates common faults of parents in handling small children. He says that pulling a child along by one hand or walking between two adults, especially if one is taller than the other may cause injury. Throwing a child in the air and catching it; or carrying a sleeping youngster and not properly supporting its head and back are also dangerous practices. Dr. Lemly discourages cuffing a child on the side of the head or pushing him over rough places in his walker. All of these practices are dangerous as they injure the spine and nerves and may be laying the foundation for future trouble such as weak eyes, mastoid trouble, enlarged tonsils, rheumatism, constipation, St. Vitus dance, infantile paralysis, and other disorders.

The Chiropractor adjusts the spine to correct spinal injuries allowing normal nerve function and natural healing.

Wen't Repudiate View On Catholic President

Dr. Daniel Poling Says Both He and Dr. Peale Hold to 'Fear' Statement

New York — Dr. The Rev. Dr. Daniel A. Poling says of the nation, "Dr. McIntire neither he nor Dr. Norman said in a statement. "This in-Vincent Peale repudiate a cludes his religious affilia-Protestant group's statement tions."

Dr. Poling, editor of the Christian Herald, agreed yesterday that Dr. Peale did not take part in writing the resolutions, from the National Conference of Citizens for Religious freedom, expressing fear of a Catholic as president.

"But neither Dr. Peale nor I repudiate the Washington resolutions," said Dr. Poling in a statement. "I do repudiate the manner in which these resolutions have been attributed to Dr. Peale."

Approved By Dr. Peale The New York Times reported Dr. Poling as adding that his statement had been read and approved by Dr. Peale in a telephone call.

Dr. Peale, minister of the Marble Collegiate church here, could not be reached directly for comment.

Dr. Poling, who has been critical of the Democratic presidential candidate, Sen. John F. Kennedy, also commented that the Washington resolutions came from "patriotic and worthy men with whom I am honored to be associated."

Dr. Peale has resigned from the conference, saying he had nothing to do with the group's Washington statement questioning a Catholic's independent judgment as president.

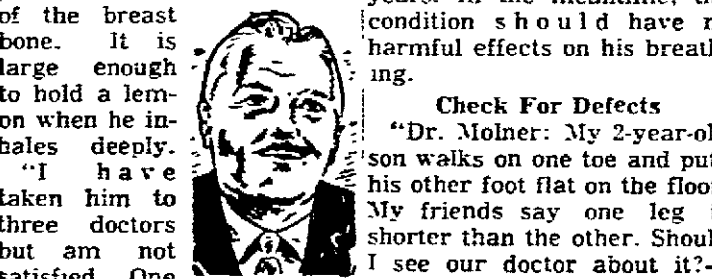

Dr. Poling, in his statement, attacked Theologians Dr. Reinhold Niebuhr and Dr. John C. Bennett—also officers of the liberal party which is supporting Kennedy—and critics of Dr. Peale and the Washington meeting.

Prejudiced Witnesses Drs. Bennett and Niebuhr, Dr. Poling said, "are prejudiced witnesses when they name as 'bigots' . . . other Protestant clergymen with whom they disagree."

Similar criticism of Drs. Niebuhr and Bennett came from Dr. Carl McIntire, president of the International Council of Christian Churches. "Christian people in this nation have a perfect right to consider any question relative to a candidate which they

To Your Good Health Time, Surgery Help Correct Small Boy's 'Funnel Chest'

By Joseph G. Molner, M. D. at the age of 3. It is usually done before puberty, so you should not be worried if the doctor suggests waiting a few years. In the meantime, the condition should have no harmful effects on his breathing.

Check For Defects "Dr. Molner: My 2-year-old son walks on one toe and puts his other foot flat on the floor. My friends say one leg is shorter than the other. Should I see our doctor about it?" Mrs. L. E.

Absolutely, yes. It may not turn out that one leg is shorter, but there may be a defect in the foot, or hip, or possibly elsewhere, which can be corrected. I suppose it might be merely a habit, formed because of a sore place on the foot, but I rather doubt it.

"You Can Stop Sinus Trouble!" is the title of my book-let explaining what sinus trouble really is, and encouraging the cause or causes. One explanation is that a fibrous band attached to the spine or write to Dr. Molner in care of diaphragm pulls the breast of this newspaper, enclosing a bone inward. I am not at all long, self-addressed, stamped convinced that this is the envelope and twenty cents in whole story. Another more likely cause is the pressure from bent legs or arms of the fetus against the breast bone before birth.

"Pigeon Breast" In any event, this is called a "funnel chest," and is an opposite condition where the breast bone protrudes too much called "pigeon breast." What to do about it? There are varying degrees of this "funnel" effect (just as there are of "pigeon breast") and mild ones require no attention. A pronounced "funnel" may crowd the organs in the chest and require treatment. The condition may become worse as the child grows. On the other hand, while the youngster is not to be expected to "grow out of it," the condition may not be great enough to cause him any trouble, now or later.

If it becomes apparent that something needs to be done, correct the defect by surgery, which brings gratifying success. However, there is no rush

Handbill Leaders Speak Philleo Nash Attackers Plan to Increase Activity

Burczyk and Malone said they were admirers of McCarthy. Both stressed that they are Roman Catholics, attended Catholic schools and had been "instructed in the evils of communism" in school.

They said they were guided by "religious and patriotic motives," and Burczyk added that one of the prerequisites for membership in the group was active church membership. He said that all major the Soviet bloc in Leopoldville. The total number of eastern officials and "technicians" in the Congo has been estimated at between 400 and 500.

They were moving out of the embassies in trucks, vans and automobiles most of the morning. Women were seated in some of the trucks carrying baggage and one truck was heaped high with documents.

Lumumba Helped Reds The communists had been moving into the Congo with the explicit assistance of Lumumba for the last month.

The Soviet Union sent 11 Myushin-14 planes into the Congo to assist Lumumba in his war against political foes in Kasai and Katanga provinces.

Also sent to the Congo by the Soviet Union were 100 Russian trucks for hauling troops and supplies to the airport far ahead of the Russians. They left their embassy, where all papers had been burned in a small incinerator in the back yard, yesterday.

Four Myushin planes from Accra reached Leopoldville's Ndjili airport about noon. The exodus took a dramatic turn when the Soviet embassy asked the United Nations to provide protection during the night.

Conflicting Reports This morning when Congolese troops turned up to enforce the evacuation order the United Nations troops refused them entry. The Congolese commander then turned his troops over to the U.N. command and together they guarded the Russian departure.

The reports about Lumumba's disappearance varied widely. One report said he had slipped out of his official resi-

Social Security

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Q. I understand when a husband pays into social security and dies, the widow and children under 18 receive social security benefits. This terminates for the wife if she remarries, but not for the children. They are protected and have enough income for the rest of the family to live comfortably. This being logical, why isn't some provision being made if the husband dies, to let his early 60s for his wife in her late 50s and no children under 18 left at home? Why isn't some benefit provided for the widow if she is unable to work for lack of education or illness? I think these are the crucial years. All the social security benefits paid for over 20 years go for nothing for these particular people under 20 years of age.

A. The Social Security Administration office receives numerous questions which are too lengthy or involved to be listed in this Question and Answer column. Therefore, it is requested that such questions be directed to the local Social Security office for reply, on individual basis.

One such question received most often is why the Social Security law does not provide payments to widows who are under 62 and who do not have minor or disabled children in their care.

Children's benefits were designed to help the family unit during the dependent years. The children having some means of support. At about age 18, however, but important details were lacking and officials of the government could not be reached.

The United Nations was known to be concerned about Lumumba's disappearance. One Ghanaian guard at the Lumumba residence yesterday said Lumumba had left shortly before army men swooped down and arrested 21 members of his staff. Another Ghanaian guard said he did not see Lumumba leave.

There were reports last night that Lumumba had taken refuge in the Ghanaian embassy or the Guinean embassy but these were found to be false.

Missing Band Uniforms Found—In Shop Where They Started From

Nashville, Tenn. — John G. Miller, who runs a musical instrument company, frantically called police when a special order of 12 band uniforms valued at $900 turned up missing.

An employee had been instructed to ship the uniforms by air. But neither the uniforms nor employee showed up at the airport.

Miller checked every junk and garbage collector in town and went through 100 bus station lockers. Then he found them in a vacant room in his own shop. The employee is still missing.

til the age of 65 for men and 62 for women. I think some consideration should be made, so they can collect benefits also, to make their lives a little more comfortable and relaxing.

Show Him the Way to Go Home

The best welcome Nikita Khrushchev can have, from our point of view, when he lands in New York next week, is a clear view of the longshoremen's signs proclaiming "K. Go Home!" We are the host nation of the United Nations official headquarters and we have to give him access to the U. N. building where he, as the head of a state, has the right to appear without invitation. But we don't have to be enthusiastic about it.

There is a lot of speculation about why Nikita chose a slow boat for his journey instead of the highly vaunted Russian jets. There are rumors of bombs and plots and faulty engines. But it is more likely that Khrushchev wants the ten days so the west can stew. The tensions and disgust may die down a little. Some diplomats are bound to say "Oh, well, it won't hurt to be nice to him." Somebody else will start urging a

Trust Busters Seek a New Sledge

The Bureau of the Census is interested in collecting facts. Over the years it has found facts so valuable that it will go to great lengths to collect them. It will promise absolute secrecy in order to encourage individuals and corporations to provide the information it seeks.

It has sought information from corporations on blanks which contain the promise that the information to be received is confidential and only employees of the Census Bureau will have access to it. Further, it promises that it "cannot be used for purposes of taxation, investigation or regulation."

Obviously the bureau fully intends to keep that promise since for many years it has diligently sought to do so.

Back in the fall of 1956, when the Federal Trade Commission brought anti-trust charges against Beatrice Foods of Chicago, the FTC lawyer tried to subpoena copies from Beatrice Foods of its 1954 report to the Census Bureau. The company balked at turning over the information but was ordered by a district court to do so. Later the U.S. Court of Appeals in Chicago reversed that order saying the information was confidential and protected.

The FTC was seeking a copy of the census report directly from the corporation rather than asking the Census Bureau to furnish its copy. This was because, in an earlier case against the Bethlehem Steel Corporation, the courts had held that the census officials were prohibited by law from divulging the contents of reports filed with them. However, in the Beatrice Foods case the appeals court noted that the FTC was seeking "to do indirectly that which it could do directly." The court put this aside saying "we cannot believe the congress intended such a result."

Now, however, the case is going to the supreme court for decision. The FTC and the Justice Department's anti-trust division are supporting the appeal. On the other hand, the Census Bureau is fighting desperately to preserve its record from prying eyes and it is supported by the Budget Bureau which is the White House's coordinator of all statistics gathered by government agencies. It has joined the Cen-

Looking Backward

More Information on Ship Disaster

100 YEARS AGO
Quoted from the Appleton Crescent for the week of Sept. 13, 1860.

(This is one of several stories printed by the Crescent on one of the most tragic disasters on the Great Lakes. It never was determined how many persons died when the fast steamer Lady Elgin collided with the sailing schooner Augusta at 2 a.m. off Waukegan, Sept. 8, 1860. Records show that 298 bodies were recovered, but the total loss may have exceeded that number.)

It is now evident from the appearance of that part of the wreck of the Lady Elgin that lies at Daggatt's Point, near Waukegan, that the final catastrophe was brought about by the dropping of the engine, walking beam, etc., through the bottom.

All that part of the hull abaft the midships on the larboard side lies upon the beach — a full fourth of the hull from the plank shear to the keel.

The most rational explanation of the disaster is that the colliding vessel carried away the larboard wheel and most of the engine braces on that side, and that as soon as she rolled a-port, the engine and walking beam, having nothing to sustain them, carried away a large part of the hull and went out on the larboard side of the keel, producing the catastrophe which all the saved describe as very sudden. It is probable that the first violent roll after the collision did the fatal work.

From Mr. John Evgston and other survivors we learn that almost immediately after the steamer sank, the ap-per deck on which most of the passengers were collected broke into a thousand pieces. Large pieces of timber rushed up through the floor with a terrific force, and in this way many were either instantly killed or injured so seriously that they were incapable of doing anything to secure themselves.

Saturday, Sept. 16, 1950

Tank-laden American and South Korean marines captured the southwest areas and advanced toward the heart of the red-held Korean capital of Seoul. The fast-moving attack gained 22 miles since United Nations forces landed at Seoul's port of Inchon.

The way was almost clear for Gen. George C. Marshall to take over as secretary of defense. Riding down Republican opposition, congress voted to shatter a long-time precedent and let a military man — instead of a civilian — enter the cabinet as boss of a military department.

Progress on the proposed Franklin elementary school, to be built on E. Lindbergh street, came to an abrupt halt when the board of education opened bids for the general construction contract and found them to be prohibitively high.

Pat Wolf was elected president of the Library club at Weyauwega High school. Other new officers were Jackie Kamp, vice president, Elaine Deuber, secretary, Elaine Kempf, treasurer, and Robert Leohrke, student council representative.

Intelligence Lacking at Antietam

BY BRUCE CATTON

In all the American Civil war, no single day was bloodier or more costly than one day of battle on the hills and fields overlooking Antietam creek in western Maryland; nor did any single combat in that war go so far toward putting this American crisis on the road toward solution.

Things had not been going well for the Union cause in the summer of 1862. The great drive to capture Richmond had failed in the smoke and clamor of the famous Seven Days' battles.

After the personality of a general on a battlefield — and you've altered the course of history. In this case, the general is George B. McClellan, who always thought he was going to be beaten. At Antietam, he had the men but not the nerve for a brilliant attack against Lee. He won the battle — technically — but had he acted differently, he might have ended the Civil war on that bloody field in Maryland 98 years ago.

President Abraham Lincoln's government had scrambled frantically to retrieve the situation, without luck. A new federal army, styled the Army of Virginia, had been organized; but Lee and Stonewall Jackson, had run rings around Gen. John Pope and — at Bull Run — had shattered his army in defeat.

Lee Marching North

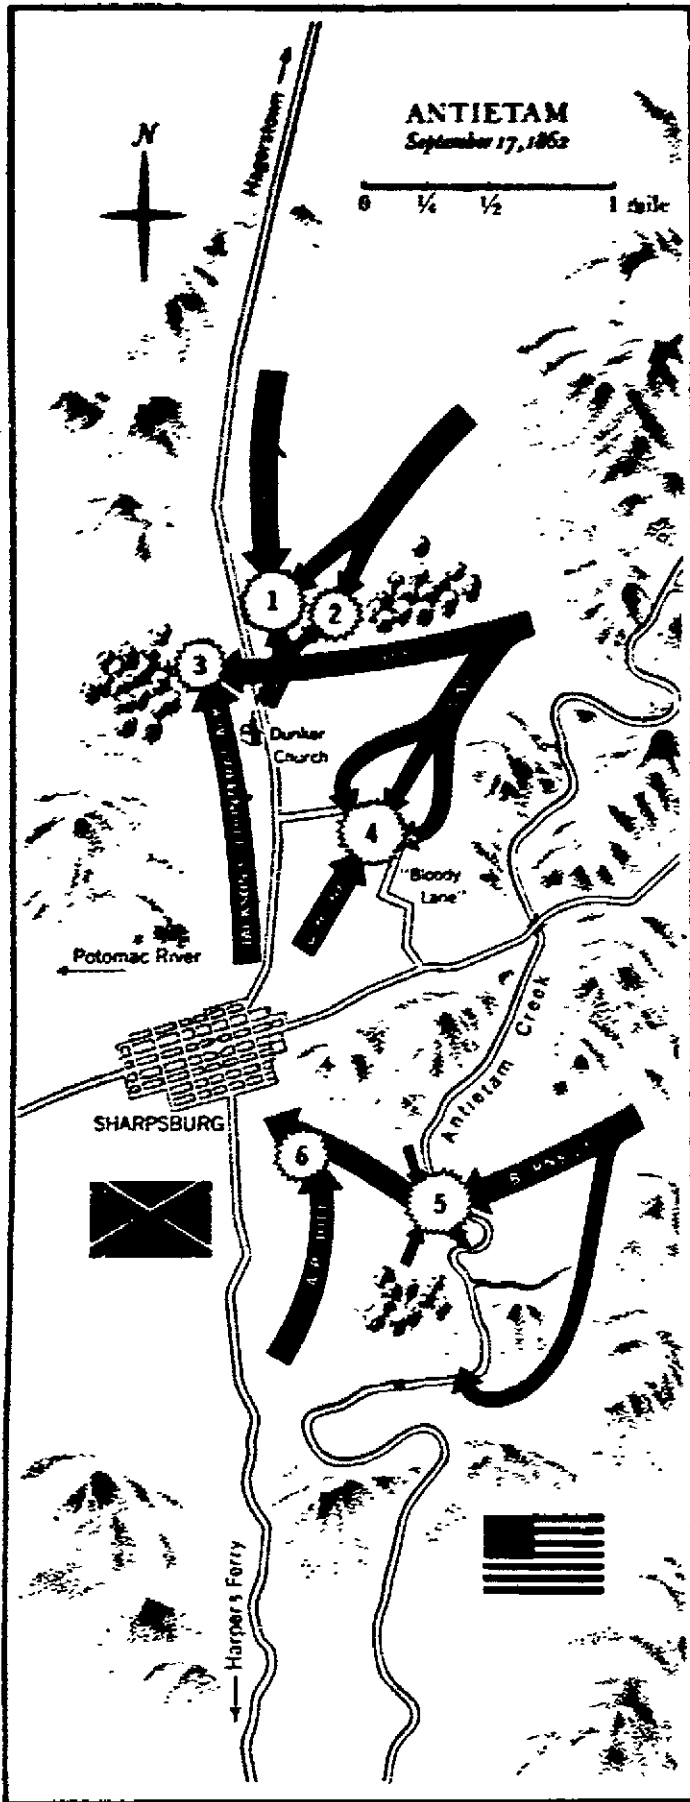

Worst of all, Lee's triumphant Army of Northern Virginia — ragged, weary, but powerfully imbued with the notion that there was no Yankee army anywhere that could not be licked — had crossed the Potomac river and was marching up on an invasion of the northern heartland, aiming apparently at nothing less than the capture of Washington.

Along with this there was the open threat of decisive European intervention on the side of the Confederacy.

Thus far, official policy was that the war was being fought for the sole purpose of restoring the Union and that the issue of slavery had nothing to do with it. To Lincoln it was clear that he must now broaden the base; if this could now be made a war against slavery, it would become a thing in which no European government would dare to intervene.

Restores McClellan

To bring this about, Lincoln had on his desk a draft of what would eventually be the Emancipation Proclamation. But the proclamation could not be issued until the North had won a victory.

This Map Shows the Several attacks by Union forces at Antietam. In No. 1, Hooker's corps drives down the Hagerstown pike and through the cornfield; in No. 2, Mansfield's corps comes to the rescue after the first attack fails, and in No. 3, one of Sumner's divisions drives past the Dunker church and is rebuffed. In No. 4, Sumner's other two divisions take the sunken lane but get no further; in Nos. 5 and 6, Burnside crosses the Antietam Creek, gets almost into Sharpsburg, and then collapses under the force of A.P. Hill's counterattack.

So Lincoln did what he could. To the poorly reorganized Army of the Potomac, which was moving up into Maryland to try to catch and defeat Lee, he restored McClellan, despite the grumbling of important cabinet members and party leaders. This done, he could only wait for the test of battle.

During the first two weeks of September, the rival armies sparred for an opening. Lee moved west of South Mountain, which cuts through western Maryland into Pennsylvania. Screened by his cavalry, which the mountain passes with infantry support, he evolved a daring plan. There was a federal post at Harpers Ferry held by 12,000 troops, and it seemed to Lee that his invasion would go on more smoothly if this post could first be gobbled up.

Lee divided his forces and sent half his army, under Stonewall Jackson, doubling back to capture Harper's Ferry.

Plan Backfires

Jackson surrounded the post before the federals knew what was going on, and forced its surrender. There was, however, one accident. A copy of Lee's orders setting forth the whole plan was somehow lost, to be picked up by two federal officers. It was sent to McClellan, who immediately realized that Lee had divided his army.

McClellan was a capable general, but he usually moved very slowly, and Lee had banked heavily on this fact. But finding the lost order spurred the usually sluggish McClellan into action to destroy Lee's scattered forces. He put his army on the road.

He did not move quite fast enough to save the Harper's Ferry garrison. But McClellan's sudden move put a serious hitch in Lee's invasion plans. Before he could do anything about entering Pennsylvania, Lee had to fight off this thrust of McClellan's. The weary Confederates were ordered to move at once to Sharpsburg, Md.

Strength Depleted

The army that would reunite at Sharpsburg would be very far under strength. If all of its units reached the scene, Lee would have no more than 45,000 men of all arms; and McClellan was on the scene with more than 85,000. Not until the final desperate campaign of Appomattox would Lee enter a major battle with his strength so badly depleted.

But if the Confederate army was thin, it was full of high spirits. It had not yet lost a battle, and its members believed they would win this one.

Lee put his men in position on the high ground north of Sharpsburg on Sept. 16, while McClellan's host assembled on the hills opposite, on the far side of Antietam Creek. Why McClellan did not open an immediate attack is beyond fathoming.

But McClellan was a leisurely character. Also, for some unaccountable reason, he always believed he was outnumbered. The whole day, passed with nothing more serious taking place than clashes between outposts.

Lee's position was strong, but it had no depth. It was on a thumb of land between the Potomac and Antietam Creek.

Attacks Sept. 17

Jackson held the high ground around a little Dunker church, with infantry massed in a big cornfield. Center of the line was held by a division led by Gen. D. H. Hill, and occupied a natural trench, as good as a fort. South of this position, Longstreet had more men and artillery.

Having spent the day arranging his own masses, McClellan ordered an attack at dawn on Sept. 17.

The first move was entrusted to Gen. Joseph Hooker, whose objective was the Dunker church position.

Three divisions approached the cornfield, found it full of armed Southerners, and wavered to a halt. On a ridge immediately behind the infantry, Hooker ordered up guns. They plastered the cornfield unmercifully. Cornstalks flew in the air, and knapsacks, muskets, and bits of human bodies. Then the infantry moved in. Hooker's division cleared their way, despite murderous fire, to the Dunker church, where they were hit by a vicious counterattack. Reinforcements came up, driving out John B. Hood's men and the remnants of the Confederate line.

Again it was time for reinforcements, and Edwin Sumner led one of his divisions across the burnt-out cornfield and into a woodland, aiming to break in the extreme left of the Confederate line. There he ran into an ambush.

Bloody Stalemate

Portions of Lee's army, finishing the cruel hike from Harpers Ferry, hit Sumner's leading division in the flank, crumpling it with one savage blow and driving the division north in wild retreat. For a moment it looked as if the whole right of McClellan's army might be involved in the rout, but Hooker's huge line of guns on the ridge to the north was a rallying point, and the triumphant Confederates were driven back to the Dunker church position. The real fighting in that part of the field was over... stalemate.

Now Sumner brought his other two divisions up to attack the Confederates in the sunken road. Attack after attack followed in bewildering sequence, with trim Union divisions moving up to the deadly little lane, breaking under Confederate fire, retreating, and reforming for another attack. The Confederates wavered and finally broke, and the triumphant Northerners swarmed in.

Lee was now on the edge of final defeat. The center of his position was lost, and no reinforcements were in sight. One determined push would have broken his line, and the Army of Northern Virginia might have been destroyed. But McClellan was worried. The men who had taken Bloody Lane were exhausted, and the troops that might have been sent in to exploit this success he held in reserve lest Lee mount a counterattack. (A counterattack, just the n,

Wisconsin Has Never Had Catholic Governor

BY JOHN WYNGAARD

Madison — The discussion of religious affiliation in the current presidential campaign is a new element for the politicians and others trained in Wisconsin campaigns, and there is a good deal of difficulty in analyzing the effect of the factor as a consequence.

From the way in which Sen. Kennedy's church affiliation is being emphasized in current publicity and speculation, however, it is plain that the political managers will do a good deal of thinking about it in the weeks to come.

It may appear curious, in retrospect, that in a state which has a somewhat higher proportion of Roman Catholics in its electorate than has the nation as a whole, Wisconsin has had little experience in appraising Catholic candidates for high public office.

Wisconsin has not yet elected a Roman Catholic governor. Indeed, comparatively few Catholics have run for the governorship. There have been only a handful of Roman Catholic U. S. senators sent to Washington from Wisconsin, and most of them under such exceptional electoral circumstances that the happenstance of their religious faith figured in the campaigns only slightly, if at all.

HOW TO MEASURE?

There have been some reasonably clear examples of a religious division of the electorate, in other ways.

The issue of public transportation of parochial children to school is the example most frequently remembered. It is the illustration most often cited by those who believe there is a relation between religious connection and the electoral behavior when they want to analyze the voting behavior of the state.

What follows is written advisedly.

There is no more avid topic of speculation among the professional politicians and the local candidates of Wisconsin today than the possible relation between church affiliation and November voting.

There is nothing that the average politician is more worried about, moreover.

For there is an excellent chance that such a division, if it is proved, can cut both ways. No politician can be quite sure today that his own side will gain, if there is even a tendency for a religious distribution of the vote in November.

Democrats are worried about the outlook.

But there are Republicans who are worried about the possibilities of a Catholic reaction to such tendencies.

There are sections that the Republicans must carry to have even a faint hope of carrying the state — notably the Fox river valley — where the proportion of Catholics is high. If there is a flight from the Republican ticket as a response to anti-Catholic voting elsewhere, the result will be incomparable confusion.

These are extremely diffi-

Man Starts Furniture Shop After Retiring

BY THOMAS COLLINS

This is the saga of a man and his wife who have found the golden years in a paint-remover shack in the Tennessee mountains.

You probably could do the same. You'll need a touch of romance in your makeup. You will also need a bit of courage. But you won't need much money.

The couple, Mr. and Mrs. George B. Hunt, are in the business of renovating and selling "Grandma Furniture"—as distinguished from antique furniture. "It's the sort of business," says Mr. Hunt, "where if the customers want something George Washington sat in, you tell 'em to go to Pennsylvania. But if they want something Grandma sat in, and will to them—even though Grandma didn't even have a decent frying pan to leave them—then you invite 'em in."

Become Extrovert

Hunt was not such an extrovert before his retirement. He was a dignified, introverted employee of an investment-and-lending company.

He did well in his career. At 61 he had a $12,000 house paid for, a $5,000 life insurance policy paid up, a rainy-day hoard of $14,000 and a loving wife.

"The company had a good pension system," he says. "I had paid into it for 22 years, and on my 61st birthday I was entitled to a monthly income of $143 for life."

"I knew by that time that a man on a salary wasn't going to get rich. So why not look for some other reward? I didn't really need to get away from the noise—my boss was good and my company was good. I didn't need a rest, and I didn't need a mild climate. I did need, as I think most people desperately need, some basic satisfaction out of this short life we live . . . if I could afford it at 61."

Wife Agreed

"I knew I could get some satisfaction out of working with my hands. I knew I could get satisfaction out of bringing old furniture back to life. I believed a whole new box of satisfactions might be opened by a new environment, new people, 24-hour-a-day freedom, and any kind of work of my own choosing."

"My wife—God bless her—agreed."

The Hunts had taken many vacations in the Ashville-Gatlinburg-Knoxville area of the Blue Ridge mountains. This, they decided, was the place to retire to if Hunt could afford it.

They figured they needed $200 a month. Since the pension would give $143 they needed $57 more. If they sold their house for $12,000, took $4,000 of that and added it to their $14,000 savings, they could net about $60 a month by investing it all at 4 per cent.

Settled Easily

"The $8,000 left from the house," says Mr. Hunt, "had to buy us housing in the mountains, move us, and get us started in the secondhand furniture business."

It did—quite neatly. The Hunts found a small frame cottage on four acres of rocky ground, located on a U.S. highway, and bought it for $5,000. They traded their sedan for a truck and moved themselves, for about $100. They built a furniture workshop just down the highway from the cottage for less than $300.

"We got completely settled in the new location with a little over $2,000 in the bank, plus a cash value on my life insurance in case of real trouble."

The Hunts spent their first six months getting acquainted, building their workshop, joining the church, learning how to get to hospitals and TV, newspapers and visitors for the evening; and then to bed after the midnight news.

"I don't think anybody is going to erect a monument to our neighbors didn't really us," says Hunt. "But I don't care whether we came visiting in it or in a limousine. And with this truck we began forging through the second-hand furniture shops of southern cities. We'd drive to Louisville, for instance, check into a motel, and spend two days loading up with old, broken-down furniture. Then we'd drive home and have our raw material for six weeks of work."

They set up a schedule for their days: Out of bed by 8; breakfast and the newspapers until 10; refinishing furniture in the workshop until 1; lunch and a nap until 3 (with a bell on the workshop if a customer stopped); loafing or what-have-you until dinner at 7; how to get to hospitals and TV, newspapers and visitors for the evening; and then to bed after the midnight news.

Liturgical Mission Set For Parish

The Rev. Richard Keller, pastor of St. Pius X Catholic church, announces the parish will hold a liturgical mission beginning Sunday morning and continuing to Sept. 23. The mission will be conducted by the Rev. Celestine Kapsner, O.S.B., of St. John's Abbey, Collegeville, Minn.

Mission services will be held daily after the 5:30, 6:15 and 8 a.m. masses and every evening at 7:30 p.m.

The aim of the mission is to awaken a better appreciation of the official public worship of the church, known as the liturgy.

The mission will continue in the workshop until 1; lunch and a nap until 3 (with a bell on the workshop if a customer stopped); loafing or what-have-you until dinner at 7; how to get to hospitals and TV, newspapers and visitors for the evening; and then to bed after the midnight news.

Appleton Health Officer Advises Getting Flu Shots

With cooler weather and winter approaching, Dr. Marvin S. Kagen, city health commissioner, is recommending influenza inoculations to help prevent epidemics.

Two inoculations about two months apart are recommended.

They are especially recommended for pregnant women and persons of all ages who suffer from chronic illness, or from heart and cardio-vascular disorders, broncho-pulmonary disease, diabetes, Addison's disease, and persons 65 and older.

Anyone who is allergic to eggs is advised against having the vaccine, because it is cultured in eggs. Dr. Kagen said.

The vaccine is reported 60 to 75 per cent effective. A U. S. Public Health Service study shows that 86,000 persons died during the flu epidemics in late 1957 and early parts of 1958 and 1960.

Charlie Happily Looks Forward To 130-Mile Walk Into Autumn

BY CHARLES HOUSE
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

Now, as you may already know, I am preparing for a new adventure, a new journey. This one is to be a 130-mile walk into Wisconsin's autumn, our prettiest time.

It is an assignment which I love even though my typewriter muscles will creak and groan for a few days after I commence the long stroll. I have found by experience that by the trip's end, I have grown tough and ready for many more miles. It will be so in this case.

However, I am to begin my journey at pretty Kaukauna on the shores of Lake Michigan. I will stroll a prescribed course into Ellenville, Stangerville, Denmark, Shirley, Greenleaf, Wrightstown and Kaukauna.

I do not yet know where I shall rest for the nights. Often, good people have taken me in as a sort of a House guest.

Out of Kaukauna, I will stroll to Freedom, Stevensville, New London, Northport, Royalton, Manawa, Ogdensburg and then to my goal this year—Iola, in Waupaca county.

I have no real reason for choosing Iola as my goal except that I have been there and I have liked the look of the community; it is small enough so that I shall be able to know it well by the time I leave.

Too, I know it is a friendly community—and what is a better place to march to?

Writes as He Pleases

I do not know specifically what I shall "cover" on this assignment although obviously I must report to you on the development of our autumn.

The people I meet; the places I visit; the farmers I work with; the things I see and do—all these will have to be grist for my typewriter.

Who can say what is to be in a story? A chat with a little boy? A fleeting glimpse of a deer? A day of hunger? A night of fiftieth slumber in a cemetery? A warm bed in the home of a farmer? A taste of home made bread?

At any rate, I shall write as I please. This is the right that is given me, and I shall hope that it may have its appeal to the reader.

To Break No Records

At any rate, I shall depart on the morning of Sept. 21 from Kaukauna. It is my plan to break no records for

Refuses $100 For Coin, Gets Only Receipt

Washington — Mrs. Joseph Gieder, Sr., disdainfully refused $100 for the funny looking penny.

She was even more indignant when secret service agents offered another penny for the rare silver coin. She wound up with only a receipt.

The coin was a hybrid—one of several to slip through the mint in recent years, according to the secret police. It consists of the imprint of a penny on a silver dime blank.

Counterfeit

Mrs. Gieder spotted it last month in the drawer of a justice department cafeteria cash register. The cashier told her it was a counterfeit and willingly swapped it for a copper cent.

A downtown coin shop told her the coin was valuable. She refused $100, having heard it was worth up to $400.

Then the secret service, watchdog over the nation's money, learned about it. Her son said an attorney at the justice department where she works advised her to give it up.

In Salt Lake City, Supt. Lyle Hyatt of the Utah Highway patrol is wondering what the going rate is for an upside down $20 bill.

Hyatt's wife, who works in a bank, found a 1934 series federal reserve note with one side printed upside down. She purchased the bill from the bank.

Hyatt took it to Secret Service Agent Robert F. Grube and he declared it genuine. Grube said there could be only 11 others like it and most of them probably retired.

Hyatt hopes that will raise the market value of the bill.

Director Announces He Will Wed Kim Novak

London — American movie director Richard Quine says he and actress Kim Novak will marry "just as soon as ever we can."

Quine, in London for the premiere of his latest movie, "Strangers When We Meet," said last night that he phones Kim every day.

When they were both last in London, in May, Quine and Miss Novak parried questions on marriage.

"If things hadn't been so complicated—with me being so long in Hong Kong for the Suzy Wong picture and Kim being in California—we would have been married already," he told a reporter.

UW Campus Heading for Major Change

8-Story Tower to Rise From Hill At State School

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

Madison — The University of Wisconsin's skyline is headed for a drastic change. A new 8-story tower will soon rise from the central hill on the historic campus where old Bascom hall has been the principal structure for generations.

It will be a $2,250,000 mathematics building of strikingly modern design which will be crowded into a vacant space between older structures on the campus where building sites have become increasingly scarce with the enormous physical reconstruction of the university during the last decade.

The daring design was originally proposed nearly 30 years ago. It has now been officially approved by the university regents. The building will be called Edward Burr Van Vleck hall, in honor of a former university mathematician.

Expand Campus

In another dramatic decision forced by the school's vast enrollment growth, the regents have decided to expand the campus "south of the avenue."

As remembered by thousands of former students, the south border of the campus historically has been University avenue, one of the main cross town thoroughfares of the capital city.

The regents have approved a 10-year expansion plan that would provide space for new student housing across the avenue. First units numbering about 1,000 will be built by 1963. Ultimately there will be space for about 4,000, on about 16 acres of new campus property at a probable cost of about $28,000,000.

Slayer of Boy Goes To Electric Chair

Tucker Prison Farm, Ark.

Emmett Earl Leggett walked to the electric chair after dawn Friday for the slaying of a 14-year-old boy in 1955, ending his 4-year fight to escape it.

Only three hours earlier his attorney lost a dramatic pre-dawn fight before the state supreme court for a twelfth stay of the execution.

The 23-year-old Leggett watched as the electrode was fastened to his left leg and then to his shaved head. The first shock hit him at 6:19 a.m. and he was pronounced dead at 6:21 a.m. two minutes later.

Reformatory Problems Aired in Annual Report

Overcrowding Within Walls, Less Land For Agriculture Work Listed as Worst

Green Bay — The continued condition of overcrowding within the walls of the Wisconsin State reformatory and another land space problem, a gradual reduction of the institution's outside farm land, were told to the state board of public welfare at its meeting here Wednesday.

The interior problems were contained in a narration of the annual report of the institution.

High reformatory population with its related problems was not a new story heard by the board. M. A. Skaff, superintendent of the institution, said a continued high level can be expected because of the larger number of persons in the 16 to 30 years age group in the general population.

Proposed Additions

A characteristic of admissions during the year, the superintendent noted, was fewer commitments from courts but an increase in persons received from the field, such as boys returned to state custody after being on parole from the state school for boys at Waubesa.

He mentioned proposed additions which have been approved including a new infirmary-receiving building, which also will have facilities for social workers, and also the extensive repair work being done on the security wall, outdoor security lighting, and replacement and relocation of guard towers on the wall.

While approved by state agencies, much of this work still depends upon appropriation of funds in the new budget.

There is a problem in obtaining enough social workers on the rehabilitation staff, Skaff said. Authorization for three more will be requested in the next budget even though two vacancies now exist.

Serious Inadequacy

The lack of a psychiatrist is "a serious inadequacy," he said. A Green Bay psychiatrist formerly served the reformatory on a parttime basis but withdrew because of the caseload of his private practice. The possibility of the Green Bay psychiatrist receiving an assistant soon may restore the parttime service, Skaff added.

A position for a full-time Protestant chaplain has been created. However, to have a really adequate program we need a full-time Roman Catholic chaplain as well, Skaff went on.

"Immediate planning is necessary to consider the future of our farm and dairy operations located adjacent to the institution," the report said. Skaff explained that the area around the farm has been built up considerably with residences in recent years and the amount of farm land is gradually being reduced.

Wilbur Schmidt, director of the state public welfare department, told the board, "The time will come when we'll have to think about discontinuing the farm and concentrating farming operations on Oneida (the reformatory's honor farm located at the west end of Brown county)." The farm provides food for the reformatory population and also serves in occupying inmates in their vocational training.

It's Moving Day on the Farm. The encroachment of suburbia has forced Mike Heimmerrmann, route 2, Appleton, to pack up his barn and move it. The barn was moved from Heimmerrmann's farm on Highway 47 to the Mrs. Levi Schroeder farm, on Highway 76, about two miles west of Highway 10, a distance of about seven miles. The barn is crossing Highway 47 at this point. The size of the barn required that power lines be dropped to permit passage.

Inside Labor

Khrushchev Could Start War Within AFL-CIO

BY VICTOR RIESEL

N. S. Khrushchev has assigned himself the task of re-establishing pro-Soviet strength inside American labor. The Soviet chairman, therefore, was tickled more than pink when he received an invitation to come and speak to thousands of U. S. workers — all gathered on Manhattan Isle.

This invitation came from big Joe Curran, the towering, usually growling leader of the National Maritime union, AFL-CIO. To this moment the invitation and the Soviet chief's eagerness to accept has been known only to Curran, his assistant, William Perry, and those in the Russians' own inner sanctum.

This will give Khrushchev the chance for which he has been searching. He can fraternize with friendly Americans under the eyes and ears of the media of the world.

Platform Open

Unless this column's report forces the abandonment of Curran's plans to provide a proletarian audience for the supreme Soviet leader, Khrushchev probably will address the National Maritime union's convention. Delegates from luxury ship crews and ports on the Atlantic and Gulf coasts will start gathering in New York not too long after the Soviet premier's arrival. The convention opens officially in the Manhattan hotel on the morning of Oct. 3. As this is written, no other speakers have been scheduled. This leaves the platform wide open for the Russian's appearance whenever he can make it.

Curran has also asked some of the former CIO officials to join him and the Soviet leader at private talks. One bid went to Walter Reuther. Another was dispatched to Jim Carey who will be in town for last minute negotiations with the General Electric company. Carey was eager to have a prominent Russian on his own convention platform, but saw his plans done in inadvertent by Mr. K. Some time ago Carey urged Soviet Ambassador Mikhail Menshikov to fly down to Miami Beach and address the recent International Union of Electrical Workers convention there.

But the ambassador told Jim that pressure of preparations for his chief precluded his leaving Washington much as he would have liked to talk to the delegates of local unions in the electrical industry.

The invitation to Khrushchev is certain to rip the AFL-CIO wide open inside — and maybe publicly. President George Meany, towards whom Curran has adopted a "go to hell" attitude, is philosophically and tactically opposed to collaboration or fraternization in any fashion with Soviet leaders. He considers them as low on civilization's scale as was Adolf Hitler.

Meany Fights Exchange

Meany, with the support of virtually the entire AFL-CIO high council, has been fighting any exchange of labor delegations with the Soviet. He has told all inquirers — from the government and other circles — that he believes Khrushchev should be given as silent a treatment as possible during his Manhattan meanderings.

Curran disagrees. He and his colleagues accepted an invitation last summer from the Soviet's Sea and River Workers union and traveled 8,000 miles through the communist fatherland. When they returned to Moscow the delegation, made up of Curran, Bill Perry, NMU secretary-treasurer Steve Federoff, union publicist Bernard Raskin, and young Joe Paul Curran saw the premier. They talked to him in the Russian chief's office for an hour and 20 minutes, starting at 4 p.m. July 13.

But they had been asked first to submit all questions in writing. One of the queries was a request for "a discussion of the observations of the delegation in its tour of the Soviet Union with the objective of illuminating, as much as possible, the areas of suspicion and misunderstanding which exist between the American labor movement and the labor movement of the USSR." Khrushchev was not shy on that one.

Mr. K. Wants Contacts

Curran asked Mr. K. what he thought U. S. unions could do to promote friendship. Khrushchev replied at length, but it added up to "more contacts."

Apparently that is what Curran is attempting. That is what the Russians want. That is not what many believe is good for American labor. Khrushchev will talk of peace and will stir war inside a powerful section of American life.

Historic Flood Sweeps Manchuria, Reds Say

Hong Kong — The biggest flood in a century swept Red China's rich Liaoning province in Manchuria, a belated official communist report disclosed Friday.

The People's Daily said 11 inches of rain fell between Aug. 1 and 30. The report described the flood as the "biggest in 100 years," but made no mention of casualties.

Seven cities and 22 counties in the province were flooded, it said. Many mines and factories were forced to stop production and agricultural fields were washed out.

Liaoning was considered one of the richest coal and steel production centers of communist China.

Four Guilty of Topsy Driving

Two Draw Jail Terms, Two Pay Fines in Area Court Action

A young Missourian was jailed, two Twin Cities men were fined and a rural Chilton youth who rammed his car through a Chilton restaurant front drew a jail term for drunken driving.

A young Missourian was jailed and two Twin Cities men fined today for drunken driving.

Denny Lee Russell, 23, Springfield, Mo., was sentenced to consecutive jail terms of 30 and 10 days by Justice Wilber Winch in Chilton after being found guilty of drunken driving and disorderly conduct. The jail sentences are in lieu of fines totalling $150.

Russell's arrest about 2 a.m. today was the result of a joint effort of city and county police.

Refuses Tests

He admitted pushing Mrs. Richard Ruh, wife of the Hotel Chilton proprietor, during an argument in which he demanded money to make a long distance phone call.

Mrs. Ruh called police. Russell left just as they arrived. He returned later and was arrested by city and county police who were waiting for him at the hotel.

James E. Pontow, 27, of 97 Lawson street, Menasha, was fined $150 by Municipal Judge Arnold J. Cane in Oshkosh when he pleaded guilty of drunken driving. He also lost his driver's license.

Changes Plea

Pontow was arrested by Winnebago county police at 10:45 p.m. Thursday after they observed him driving erratically on Highway 45 in the town of Oshkosh. He was taken to the county jail, where he refused to take sobriety tests.

Allen J. Morey, 22, of 500 S. Lake street, Neenah, changed an earlier plea of innocent to guilty of drunken driving before Police Justice Arthur J. Ales, Menasha.

Morey was arrested the night of Sept. 8 on Alma street, Menasha, after his car struck another. He tested .19 on the drunkometer, on which a reading of .15 is considered evidence of intoxication.

He was fined $125 and his license was revoked for a year.

Randy Bishop, 19, route 1, Chilton, the motorist who early last Sunday morning rammed his car through the glass and brick front of a Chilton restaurant, was sentenced Friday afternoon by Justice Wilber Winch to six months in jail. Bishop pleaded guilty of drunken driving and willful destruction of property.

Bishop claims his teenage companion dared him to carry out the stunt, and he warned Mrs. Fred Fesing, operator of the Snack Shoppe, and patrons of the establishment of his intentions.

In addition to the sentence, Bishop's driver's license was revoked for one year.

was the one thing Lee could not possibly manage. But this truth never dawned on McClellan.)

Now the action shifted to the southern end of the line, and Gen. Ambrose E. Burnside moved into action.

Leads 4 Divisions

Somehow Burnside fed his four divisions into action one at a time, instead of massing them for a concerted attack. He succeeded, finally, in storming the little stone bridge and dusted the Confederates off the hills that overlooked it. He got one division across the creek; and after a long delay, in which ammunition was brought forward, he sent his men moving on to take the town of Sharpsburg, get between Lee and the Potomac, and make complete victory possible.

There was not a great deal Lee could do to prevent this. He had lost at least 10,000 men. The ones who remained were fighting as hard as men have ever fought, but the odds by now were overwhelming.

Then up came Confederate reinforcements: A. P. Hill's division, exhausted after a 17-mile hike. Hill had driven his men unmercifully, and he had lost at least half his division along the way, but the ones who survived arrived at the exact moment they were needed.

It was the push that settled things. The Yankees fell back. Burnside, fully as cautious as McClellan, conceived that he was in trouble;

Delay Action To Create New Department

Heating Inspector Would be Separate City Office Head

An ordinance establishing the heating inspector's office as a separate city department has been tabled by the welfare and ordinance committee.

One committee member said it is not wise to create too much "fragmentation of authority by making all sorts of independent departments and department heads."

When the change was requested at a council meeting last month, an alderman asked, "Are we going to hire a superintendent of superintendents to watch over all these people?"

The heating inspector, like the plumbing inspector, now comes under jurisdiction of Building Inspector Walter Bogan.

Okay Bid

In other action the committee approved the low bid of $668 by R. Selig and Son to partially revamp the heating system at the city home.

Several hot water mains leak and a new heat control is needed on the boiler, as well as two new balance valves on principal mains. More heat is needed in part of the basement, especially the laundry room.

The committee also approved a request from Melville Flagstad, city welfare director, to take a University of Wisconsin extension course in sociology. Cost is $33 plus books and field trips.

Astaire Makes Bid for Another Raft of Emmys

Last Year's Partner, Barrie Chase, Gets Chance to Shine on Her Own on Sept. 28

BY JINGO
Fred Astaire will make his 1960 bid for all television honors in color on NBC Sept. 28. The big news of the venture, according to advance notices, is a solo number of Barrie Chase. Miss Chase made a well-publicized flight to fame as Astaire's partner on his prize winning show last year. Now Hermes Pan, a wonderful pseudonym, the choreographer, has devised a test for her wings unaided.

A panorama of dancing moods is promised by the nation's dancing master for the hour-long show for which Astaire is executive producer.

Another new attraction besides Miss Chase's solo will be the appearance of Count Basie and band and Singer Joe Williams.

The odds are long, very long, Astaire again will add to his growing family of Emmys.

Likely and unlikely film stars again will start a parade of appearances for the fourth year on NBC's "Wagon Train" show and hour and a half before the Astaire show. Ward Bond and Robert Horton will be the consistent stars as every imaginable woe of the westward expansion is examined.

Hayley Mills portrayed the nicest, nice girl in dramatic literature, "Pollyanna," in Walt Disney's successful film, "Pollyanna," starring Now, perhaps to prove her; Clark Gable and Spencer Versatility, she is working in "Highly the show the film idols nev-Wind in Jamaica." She'll help murder a pirate captain.

Time may pass, but a type casting shroud may never be shed. Remember Jackie Searl, who made things miserable for putting Jackie Cooper way-way back when? Well, he has been "at liberty" from his villain roles for 15 years, but when he returns to acting in a TV "Lassie" segment, he'll play a psychotic farmer.

In 1940, one of the top films "Boom Town" starring Now, perhaps to prove her; Clark Gable and Spencer Versatility, she is working in "Highly the show the film idols nev-

Tom Ewell will be surrounded by girls and women when his CBS show premieres Sept. 27. They play his wife, mother-in-law and three daughters.

Bob Cummings on his popular TV show has talked considerably about his World War II flying. When The Twilight Zone premieres on CBS Sept. 30 for its second season. Bob will be seen in action as a pilot who tries to discover why he was the lone survivor of a crash in Italy during the war.

Merrill Gas Company Given Permission to Convert Its System

Merrill — The Merrill Gas company has received Public Service Commission authorization to make all changes needed to equip its present gas distributing system for the introduction of natural gas Nov. 1.

A gas explosion in July wrecked a store, killing 11 persons.

The utility's present system distributes propane gas. The PSC said Tuesday the gas company could boost the heating value of fuel now distributed and convert customer appliances. The firm said that completion of the change will permit substitution of natural gas at any time.

Changeover and improvement costs were estimated at $343,000 between now and 1965.

Our Children Motive Important To Child Learner

BY ANGELO PATRI

Parents and teachers often find it difficult to get a child to learn something he needs to know. Soon they are convinced that pressure does not bring about the shining eyes, the eager hands, the willing spirit that brings earnest work.

They watch to see just what lever of the mind was touched to stimulate the working spirit of the child. That lever is rarely the same one for every child. The watching teacher soon sees a skin and hair, so she points pattern forming in a child's out to her that personal behavior. SEAMS TO ME Cover for Card Table

By Patricia Scott

If your bridge table is used a great deal and is set-up at all times, instead of stored in a closet, I hope you keep a cover over it. Such a table is handy to have in a corner, especially in a small child's room, but it should be protected against sticky lollipops, crayons and water colors.

Quilted plastic, of course, is your best bet because it can be wiped off easily with a damp cloth. Also, the padding protects the table from wooden blocks, metal trucks and other assorted enemies of furniture. This type of cover can be made very economically.

To make the paper pattern illustrated, cut a piece of brown wrapping paper 36 inches square. Following the diagram, draw a 30 1/2 inch square inside it for top of table (30 1/2 inches is the standard bridge table size). Then draw in the four strips for the sides of the table. Two strips are 2 inches wide and 30 1/2 inches long. The other two are 2 inches wide and 32 1/2 inches long, allowing 1 inch for seam allowance when strips are joined.

The materials needed are: 1 yard quilted plastic; 4 yards bias tape; 4 yards corded piping—available in many colors and ready to apply; 12 inches elastic.

To make: Cut cover from paper pattern. Seam strips, end to end. Stitch corded piping on right side of table top square with raw edges even. To turn corner, clip seam allowance of piping, allowing it to fan out and curve with ease.

Stitch strip on same stitching line, right sides together and raw edges even. Cut 12 inch piece of elastic into four 3 inch pieces. Pin each piece of elastic 2 1/2 inches from each corner. Now bind the lower edge of the cover all around, catching the elastic ends as you bind.

Choose one of the wonderful colors that are available in quilted plastic. The cover can be a decorative addition to

Sheinwold on Bridge Blackwood and Gerber Conventions Discussed

What should a bid of four no trump mean?

To millions of bridge players throughout the world there is no problem about this. A bid of four no trump always means the Blackwood convention.

Let's review the convention, and then we can discuss the merit of this answer to the question.

Indicates Aces

When a player uses the Blackwood convention, his bid of four no trump asks partner to indicate how many aces he has.

If the response accounts for all of the missing aces, the Blackwooder may ask for kings by bidding five notrump. Replies follow the same scheme: six clubs shows no kings, six diamonds, one king and so on.

Most experts insist on one exception to the rule that a bid of four no trump asks for aces. If the bid is a direct raise in no

Researcher Sees Instant Lawn Aid to Marriage

BY JOY MILLER

New York — Ever wondering what's really behind the rash of instant marriages? — instant coffee, instant mashed potatoes, instant beer in England, at least, and now instant lawn?

E. H. Demby, president of Motivation Research associates, has an answer: People are seeking instant love.

By love, he hastens to explain, he means essential approval. The instant urge isn't just a question of saving time, but of getting a reward as quickly as possible, of winning approval for something you did.

"Our entire society is geared to approval," he says. Instant love was not an instant conclusion. Demby arrived at it after intensive research to learn what products people need emotionally. A manufacturing concern in search of something to manufacture hired him to find out.

He conducted a year-long survey based on the proposition that the outside of the home, being on constant display, represents greater emotional projection than the inside.

To his researchers, husbands privately confided that their spouses pressured them into spending their so-called free time manicuring lawns. And wives complained of being neglected by husbands working outside — grass widowhood, no less.

Marriage Threat

The evidence was overwhelming to Demby; he decided the lawn is the biggest threat to American marriage today.

His first product suggestion — instant lawn. And within six months the company's chemists came up with it. It's a spray, he says, that chemically combines with the grass blade itself — dead or brown or crabgrass — and permanently tints it a natural-looking green. It's supposed to stay that way, without washing out or rubbing off, until the next season's growth.

"I didn't realize the danger a lawn is to the American home," Demby says with awe. "Until I did my research. The lawn is a real marriage trap."

Lawn Takes Time

"Suburbanites don't have any fun," Demby says. "They spend all their time on lawns and gardens, and at the end of the year, what have they got?"

As for his theory of instant love, he says he intends to keep it at the center of all his research for the manufacturing company.

"If a product isn't a stimulant for approval, you don't need it."

"Why," he demands, "do they suggest you use a fresh egg with packaged cake mix?" It would work just as well with a powdered egg. But a woman won't be rewarded for her own cake, and putting in the raw egg makes it hers.

"I was caught," Houdini. "I couldn't have gotten out of my fix. And so it is set."

I looked at the wiggling, tied, John is launching forth criss-crossed lines, turning in the sea of architecture, and the paper this way and that. I am entering the field of interior design. I at least have said, "I'm sure that an architect will see what you have in mind. And we must be sure to take my notebook along when we go to see him. The architect, I mean."

"Architect?" John inquired. "What architect? Who said anything about an architect?"

"Well, after all," I said, "someone's got to design our addition."

Own Design

"I'm going to design it myself," John said.

I laughed merrily. "What a silly idea. The practice of architecture is certainly as specialized as your own work."

Your Problems Mother Afraid That Daughter's Boyfriend Is Old Married Man

BY ANN LANDERS

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Our 18-year-old daughter went to work in an office three months ago. She's met many nice young men but the one she sees the most has me worried.

She says he's 26 but he looks 36. He never takes her any place except for a ride to neighboring towns "to see a movie or attend a band concert." When I ask why he doesn't take her to entertainment here she says she's never thought about it. He calls her at odd hours and seems to whisper on the phone.

My husband and I suspect he is married. We haven't said anything to our daughter but we are deeply concerned. How can we find out more about this man without letting her know we're checking?

He's unfriendly to us, says "hello" and "goodbye" and seems to want to get out of the house as fast as possible. Please help us — W.P.

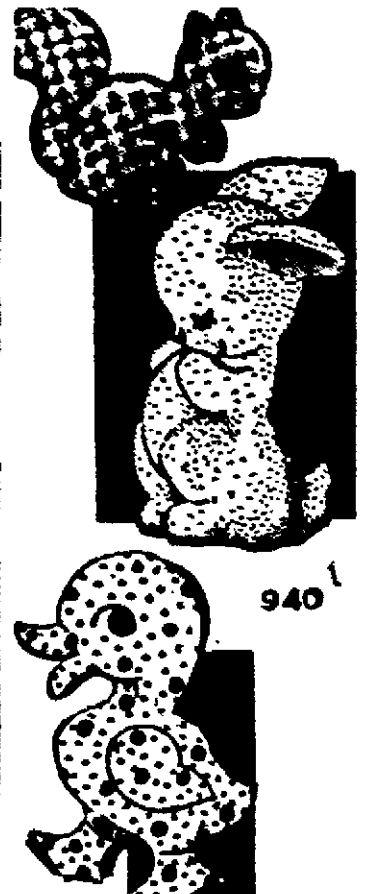

DEAR W.P.: Hire a private investigating agency to check him out. The guy sounds kinky and no company for a naive 18-year-old girl.

If we both give a little we can patch up our differences and have a good marriage?—Still in Love

DEAR STILL: Hal doesn't want to "give a little." He only wants his gifts back. Return everything, including the appliances. If he wants to pay you for half, fine, but don't press him. If the acre of land presented by your folks is in joint ownership, he should of course turn it over to you. Consider yourself lucky not to have gone through this marriage.

Does almost everyone have a good time but you? If so, send for Ann Landers' booklet, "How To Be Well-Liked," enclosing with your request 20 cents in coin and a large, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Couple Will Repeat Promises

The Conway hotel will be the setting for the wedding reception of Miss Barbara Ann Wassmann and Edward H. Tock, who will be married at 7:30 p. m. today at Zion Lutheran church. The Rev. W. H. Gammelin will officiate at the double ring ceremony.

Parents of the couple are Mrs. Doris H. Wassmann, 1205 N. Plateau street, and the late A. H. Wassmann, and Mr. and Mrs. Herman Tock, 1826 N. Union street.

The bride will be escorted to the altar by her uncle, Thomas Hilton, Evergreen Park, Ill., and will be attended by Miss Janet White, Volin, S.D., as maid of honor.

Robert Tock, West Bend, will be his cousin's best man and Clayton Kohl and Clyde Park, both of Appleton, will usher.

The newlyweds will reside at 1143 W. Glendale avenue when they return from northern Wisconsin and upper Michigan.

The young people are Appleton High school graduates. Mr. Tock works at Appleton Wire Works.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: My fiancée and I were planning to build a home. My parents gave us an acre of ground as an engagement present. Hal's mother keeps thinking of reasons to postpone our marriage. Her last excuse was that he should pay off his car first.

We've had many fights over his mother's interference. Last night Hal suggested we break up completely. He wants me to return his birthday and Christmas gifts. He says his mother can use them. We also bought some appliances together. He says I can keep them if I pay him for half. Otherwise he says he'll pay me for half and give them to his mother.

The hurtful part of all this is I still love him. Do you think

Family Diary

We have known for a long time that we needed more room for our growing family, but not until the day I brought home three women from a PTA meeting did I realize how badly we needed it.

Bruce was studying in his room. Libby was reading in hers with the radio going full blast. Sally and three other little girls were cutting paper dolls in the living room and Tommy and his gang were warding off starvation in the kitchen. In our bedroom John and a man from the office were going over some papers. There was only one place left to take my friends. And that was impossible. You simply cannot entertain three ladies in the bathroom.

Acute Situation

I tackled John with the problem right after dinner, and to my surprise he agreed that the situation was acute and demanded immediate attention. "I've been giving the matter some thought," he said.

"How marvelous it will be," I said, "to have a new bedroom and bath."

"Actually," John said, "I've been thinking about two bedrooms in addition to the bath. It wouldn't cost as much more as you think."

"Two," I repeated ecstatically and then went to get my bulging scrapbook which I handed to John. "Look, I've been saving ideas and clippings for over a year for the new addition." He skimmed through the book-suggestions ger my thinking And it just may be that I know a good deal more about interior decoration than you think I do. I have a flair for such things. Everyone says so.

John had a pad of paper and was sketching, drawing lines, rubbing them out again. He thrust the pad at me. "Now what do you think of that for a basic plan?" It's rough, of course. I was caught. Houdini. I couldn't have gotten out of my fix. And so it is set.

I looked at the wiggling, tied, John is launching forth criss-crossed lines, turning in the sea of architecture, and the paper this way and that. I am entering the field of interior design. I at least have said, "I'm sure that an architect will see what you have in mind. And we must be sure to take my notebook along when we go to see him. The architect, I mean."

"Architect?" John inquired. "What architect? Who said anything about an architect?"

"Well, after all," I said, "someone's got to design our addition."

"I'm going to design it myself," John said.

I laughed merrily. "What a silly idea. The practice of architecture is certainly as specialized as your own work."

Homebuyer Knows What He Wants

3,500,000 Americans Expected to Move to New Homes by Year End

America is on the move. Generally will want available. More than 3 1/2 million U. S. space to construct a family, families will move to new or recreation, room if one is homes before the end of this not already included. He's year.

Some will be newlyweds, some will be elderly, and somewhere in between will be the typical first time homebuyer. He is 33 years old, has three children and an average income of $6500.

The typical young 1960 homebuyer served in the military during World War II, or Korea, has been married about eight years and will buy a home costing approximately $13,375.

Recreation Room
It's likely he played one or more sports in high school, although golf, boating, hunting and fishing interest him much more now than a scrum game or a game of scrub. He prefers watching sports on his TV screen to participating, and for that reason he will probably insist on a family recreation room for his new home.

This composite homebuyer handy enough to erect studs and walls of gypsum board or install a tiled ceiling.

He also desires a home that is constructed of quality fire-safe materials. His new home will probably be in the suburbs — because that is where more than half of the nation's 179 million citizens now reside — and it will be fairly accessible to schools, churches and shopping centers.

Equipped Kitchen
His wife will have her opinions, too, about what this typical home for a typical family should include. Among them will be a compact, well equipped kitchen with modern appliances and plenty of counter and cabinet space. Three bedrooms are the minimum she'll settle for and a lavatory or half bath in addition to a master bathroom will be high on her list of desires.

She'll also want a utility room or space for her automatic washer and dryer and adequate closet space throughout the house.

They'll both want a lawn and a yard in which a small garden (either floral or vegetable, or maybe both) can be planted. A garage is no longer a ranking demand, according to Gatewood, because carpools have risen to great popularity.

A Jubilant Crowd of Appleton High school students filled the YMCA Terrors Den Friday night after the Appleton football team beat Menasha, 13 to 0. The Den is a students after-game meeting spot.

Cuba Restricts Envoy To Havana District

In a note to Bonsal, Roa said the restriction action against the U. S. envoy was taken because of "the arbitrary confinement imposed by North American authorities on the activities" of Prime Minister Fidel Castro in New York.

The Vedado section of Havana, to which Bonsal was restricted during Castro's proposed stay in New York, is about a 10-square-mile area along the sea.

Roa told Bonsal he would have to take "the usual route" to and from the embassy residence. He added sarcastically that the restrictions were inspired "by the plan to offer your excellency every kind of security."

Fire Sweeps Second Floor Of Farm Home

Neighbor Alerts Rural Chilton Family to Blaze

Chilton — Fire of undetermined origin Friday afternoon swept through the upper portion of the George Hephner home, route 4, Chilton, causing damage estimated at $2,000, according to Rantoul Fire Chief Ted Krueger.

The entire second floor, attic and roof of the frame home, about three miles north of Chilton, was a total loss.

The main floor was damaged extensively by smoke and water.

Robert Hinz, a neighbor driving past the farm about 3:15 p.m., was the first to discover the fire. Mr. and Mrs. Hephner were in the building, but unaware it was burning.

All household furnishings were saved by the Hephners and neighbors.

Chief Krueger said the fire apparently started inside the second floor walls and spread upward.

Rantoul firemen battled the blaze for more than three hours before bringing it under control. The Chilton fire department assisted with two water trucks.

Ethel Spreads Wet Blanket Over Nation

Chicago — The remnants of punishing hurricane Ethel spread a cloudy, wet blanket over the eastern half of the nation today.

Heavy rains continued to fall in much of the south after a day of damaging winds and turbulent downpours.

Nashville, Tenn., reported 1.27 inches of rain in six hours. Montgomery, Ala., 1.23 inches in a like period.

Showers and thundershowers, some locally heavy, also dampened the central and northern Mississippi valley and upper Great Lakes. Rantoul, Ill., reported a 1.31 inch rainfall.

The Fox Cities also experienced some of the cloudy sky and wet weather. Some 43 of an inch fell in Appleton during the afternoon and evening Friday.

West of the Mississippi valley it was generally fair.

Yesterday Ethel's dying gasps hit Mississippi and Alabama with swift winds and heavy rains.

A severe windstorm, described by some witnesses as a tornado, damaged businesses and homes and toppled trees and power lines in Sylacauga, Ala., several communities in the 2-state area measured 24-hour rainfalls exceeding six inches.

Transfer 34 Wilson Pupils To Taft School

Ease Kindergarten Overload by Using Multi-Purpose Room

Neenah — By rearranging use of the Taft school multi-purpose room, space has been found to establish an extra kindergarten class to relieve the presently overloaded Wilson school kindergarten.

Wilson school now has 150 children in four sessions, or about 40 per class.

A fifth class will be held mornings at the Taft school multi-purpose room and these children will be transported by bus to Taft school, starting Monday.

Class Hours

They are to be at the Wilson school by 8:30 a.m. each day. The kindergarten hours will be 8:45 to 11:15 a.m. and a bus will then return them to the Wilson school.

Dr. Donald T. Scott, acting superintendent, said letters have been sent to the parents of the children involved. These 34 children reside in the southwestern part of the Wilson school district.

This will provide better conditions for all of the kindergarten children, he stated. Activities planned for the multi-purpose room in the mornings have been rescheduled to the afternoon.

Fish Swallows Hearing Aid, Reward Offered

St. Louis — Larry Tusch, police dispatcher in suburban Overland, draws raised eyebrows when he tells it but he claims this fish story is true:

Larry was vacationing this summer with his brother, Chester, who lives in Foley, Ala.

While deep-sea fishing, a woman on the boat hooked a 35-pound mackerel. It struggled so fiercely that she moved to hand the line to one of the men and it wrapped around Chester's head.

His hearing aid was knocked into the sea and, as it hit the water, another mackerel snapped it up.

The Mobile Hearing Aid Center has posted a $25 reward for anyone catching a mackerel with a hearing aid inside it.

Neenah Expands Phy Ed Program For All Students

150 Minutes a Week Needed
To Qualify for State Aid

Neenah — Expansion of the physical education program at elementary and high school levels to meet the state law is being undertaken in the Neenah public school system this fall, Dr. Donald T. Scott, acting superintendent, said Friday.

State law requires 150 minutes of physical education a week at all grade levels to qualify for integrated aid, which is the type received by Neenah.

Previously, Neenah was deficient mainly in the first through fourth grades, junior girls and senior boys and girls in meeting the require- ment. This was because of a lack of personnel and facili- ties.

The addition of a junior high school teacher who will teach physical education and academic subjects and a new high school dean of girls who will teach several high school girls physical education classes enables the school system to come closer to meeting the requirements.

However, Dr. Scott pointed out, additional personnel will be needed next year to full- fill the requirements. This cost will have to be placed into the 1961 school budget.

Must Show Improvements

The state department of public instruction advised the school system to show some improvements if it wanted to continue receiving integrated school aid.

This year classroom teach- ers in the lower elementary grades are to double the amount of physical education time, lessening the amount of recess time. One of the 15-minute recess periods will be used for physical education. Additional time must be found to provide the equiv- alent of a 30-minute physical education period each school day.

A physical education teach- er will meet with each class for one 30-minute session a week in the lower four grades. The classroom teacher will conduct the physical education on three other days for 30 min- utes each and the final 30 min- utes will be supplied by stress- ing health education in other subject materials during the week.

In the fifth and sixth grades there will be two 45-minute physical education periods conducted by a gym teacher plus 30 minutes in health ed- ucation and 30 minutes con- ducted by the classroom teacher.

Junior High

No change is being made in the junior high setup be- cause of the limited facilities at the Kimberly Junior High school. School officials are pointing toward an improved program in the new building.

The present junior high school gymnasium is used also by the Washington and Lincoln school classes since there are no gymnasiums in those schools.

The hiring of a dean of girls qualified to teach physical ed- ucation enables expanding the high school program which has had only one girls physi- cal education teacher previ-

A Self-Portrait of the Artist, Francisco Goya Y Lucientes, is among the 42 original aquatints of his now being exhibited at the Bergstrom Art center in Neenah. The exhibit, which opened today, closes Oct. 6 and may be seen Wednesday, Thursday, Satur- day and Sunday afternoons.

At Bergstrom Center

Aquatints of Spanish Artist Being Exhibited

Neenah — An exhibit of 42 original aquatints by the famous Spanish artist, Francis- co Goya Y Lucientes, opened today at the Bergstrom art center.

Goya, who lived from 1746 to 1828 was particularly fa- mous for his court paintings and most of his works hang in the Prado museum in Madrid.

His satirical tendencies are shown throughout most of his works but are particularly vis- ible in his aquatints where he depicted situations and scenes of people with realism instead of idealism, even to a point of brutality. He is less known as an etcher although he is considered an innovator in the art of printmaking.

The prints in this exhibit are in three groups. One group, "Los Caprichos," ex- poses the vices of degraded society. Another, "Los Pro- verbios," also follows in the same vein. The third, "Los Deastres de la Guerra," done at the time of the French revolution, is a violent indict- ment against the follies of war.

This exhibit will run through Oct. 6. The art center is open to the public on Wednesdays, Thursdays, Saturdays and Sundays from 1 to 6 p.m.

Number of Crimes Sets New Record for U. S.

1.5 Million Serious Offenses 1 Per Cent Higher Than in '58; New Rise Noted

Washington —P— More law enforcement agencies in than 15 million serious combating the crime problem in spite of what he described as "ever-increasing related duties. He noted that the police have kept pace with the more than 60 per cent increase in crime since 1950 by arresting 58 per cent more offenders.

The final 1959 crime report included these statistics:

Tabulate Numbers

One murder every hour.
One forcible rape every 35 minutes.
One robbery every seven minutes.
One aggravated assault every four minutes.
One burglary, larceny or auto theft every 23 seconds.

Killers took 8,580 lives in the country as 1959 showed 4 per cent more murders than in the previous year. Potential killers seriously wounded or attempted to kill 119,610 persons, a 5 per cent increase. Homes and other buildings were victimized 635,900 times by burglars and 288,300 autos were stolen.

The value of property taken on by robbers and burglars amounted to more than $300 million, although the net loss was cut to 47 cents on the dollar by police recoveries.

Lesson in English

Words often misused: Do not say, "I have been to a banquet." or, "I have been to Paris." Instead, say, "I have been AT a banquet." and, "I have been IN Paris."

Often mispronounced: Motel. Pronounce moh-teef, accent on second syllable.

Often misspelled: Petrel (a sea bird. Petrol (gasoline in Britain).

Synonyms: Pay (verb), repay, reward, compensate, remunerate, reimburse, indemnify.

Word study: "Use a word three times and it is yours." Let us increase our vocabulary by mastering one word each day.

Today's word: pansophist; a pretender to universal knowledge. (Pronounce pansoh-fist, accent first syllable.) "The bombastic and somewhat dubiously qualified professor was accused of being a pansophist."

Young in Crimes

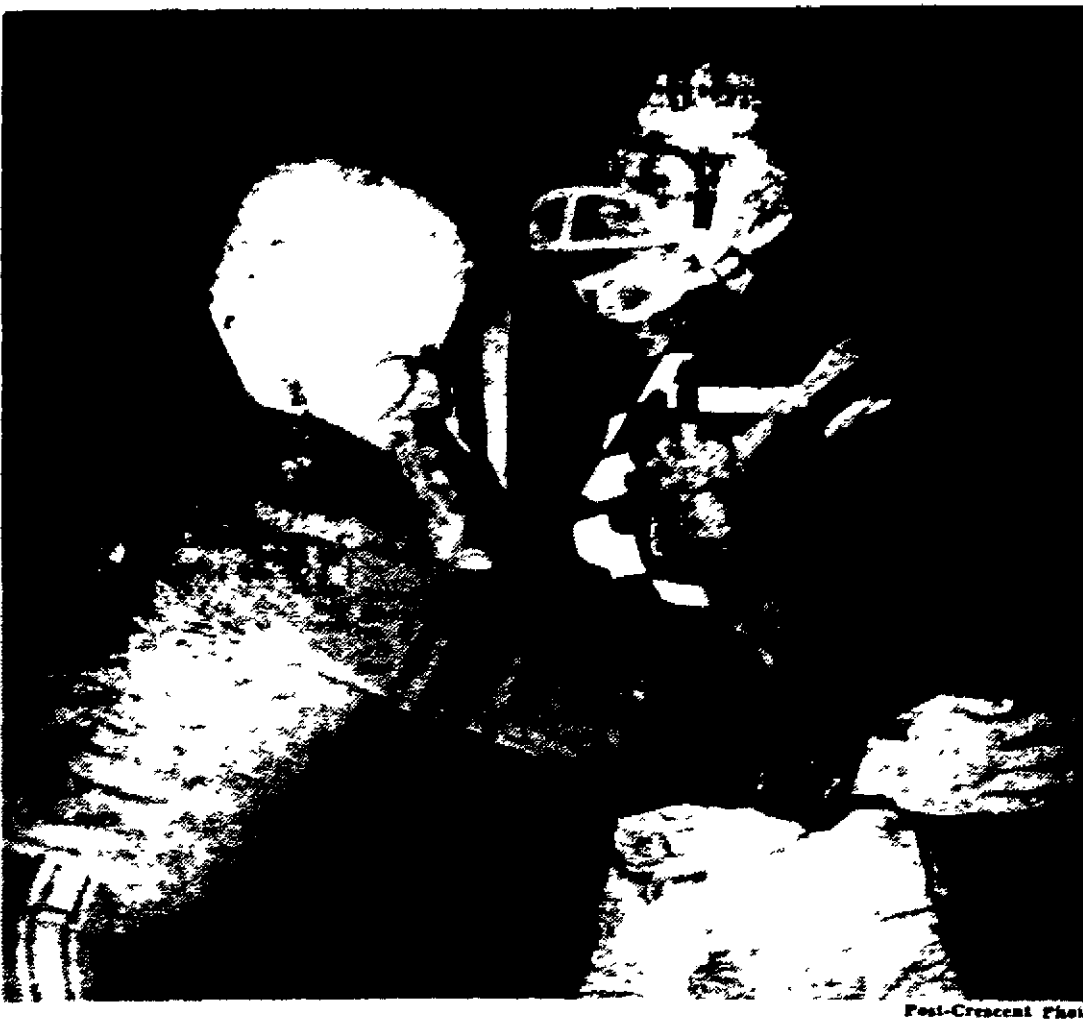

"The seriousness of the juvenile delinquency problem is pinpointed by the disproportionate involvement of young people in certain crimes. In auto theft, persons under 18 made up 64 per cent of all arrests. They represented 52 per cent of the persons arrested for burglary, while 49 per cent of the arrests for larceny and 26 per cent of the arrests for robbery were of young people.

Terrors Stop Bluejays, 13-0

BY JOHN L. PAUSTIAN
Post-Crescent Sports Editor

Menasha — Appleton High school turned a power-accented, 85-yard march and a dazzling, 51-yard aerial maneuver into a 13-0, season-opening football win over Menasha on rain-pelted Butte des Morts field Friday night.
Fullback Kent Anderson's 1-yard stab climaxed the long first quarter drive, and end "Jugger" Gendron caught quarterback Dick Bloomer's 26-yard bulls-eye pass and shoved the Terrors back to their own 49.
Bloomer, who handled his various quarterback duties effectively, drifted back and led the fast and lanky Gendron with a perfect pass. Gendron gathered it in on the Jay 25, shook off a clutching defender and dashed across the final stripe. Pete Lavale blocked Kent Anderson's PAT try.
Later in the period, Gendron caught another pass — only this time, it was an interception of a Bill Gerhard aerial on his own 40. He returned it five yards.
With reserves Tom Laux, Bill Hopkins, Dave Schilling and Dennis Gillespie carrying the ball, AHS reached the Menasha 4-yard line when the half ended.
Jays Take Heart
AHS' best second-half drive was slowed on the Menasha 15 early in the third quarter. On a fourth-and-3 situation, the Jays rose up and stopped, up a 275-57 edge in total yardage and a 13-3 superiority in first downs.
The inclement weather held attendance for the non-conference game to 1,000 or less. But because of its good drainage, the field was little affected by the hours of moisture which alternately took the forms of drizzle and full-fledged rain. Neither team lost the ball on a fumble.
The first half, which the Terrors ruled with an iron hand, told the story of the game. The Jays, who owned the ball for only 10 plays (including a punt), netted but 15 yards against AHS' slashing defenders and failed to garner a first down.
First Penetration
Menasha notched its initial first down midway in the third quarter and penetrated AHS territory for the first time early in the final period. The Jays' point of farthest advancement was the Terror 36.
The Terrors took over on their own 15 after the opening kickoff and journeyed all the way on a series of basic power and trap plays. Running backs Marv Hietpas, Kent Anderson and Cary Anderson made maximum use of effective holes opened by the AHS forwards.
Hietpas' surge of 19 yards was the longest on the drive, which produced 5 first downs. The Jays began to tighten

Intercepts Pass

In the opening minutes of the second quarter, Jim Miringoff intercepted on the Menasha 41 a deflected jump pass thrown by QB Jeff Block. A penalty nullified Kent Anderson's 5-yard gain and shoved the Terrors back to their own 49.

It's Still Hopping

Spahn Says Fast Ball Was Key to No-Hitter

BY DAVE O'HARA

Milwaukee southpaw Warren Spahn allegedly has lost — a blazing fast ball — carried him to a no-hitter at the age of 39.
The top left-handed winner in National league history achieved a personal goal Friday night by dazzling the Philadelphia Phillies for the first no-hitter of his brilliant career in a 4-0 pitching masterpiece.
"The fast ball was hopping out there," Spahn said after posting his eleventh 20-victory season. "The other pitches were okay, but it was the fast ball that did it."
Matches Burdette
A certain bet for the Hall of Fame, Spahn struck out 15 and walked only two in gaining his 28th victory and matching teammate Lew Burdette's no-hitter against the same Phils Aug. 18.
"Heck, I couldn't let old Lew get away with a no-hitter, so I had to go out there and get one too," Spahn said with a grin.
Spahn, who has two 1-hitters to his credit since winning his first game for the Braves in 1946, received only one scare in mowing down the Phils. That came on the final pitch.
With two out in the ninth, Bob Maikmus rapped Spahn's first pitch of Spahn's glove.
Shortstop Johnny Logan made a mad dash from his position, scooped up the ball and fired to first baseman Joe Adcock. The hurried throw was wide and low. But Adcock, who is 6-3, stretched as far as humanly possible and came up with the ball for the final out.
"I thought I had a hot potato," Logan said. "I had to get rid of it—and knew the throw was off. Joe had to stretch so far I thought he was going to burst. I never tried to get off a throw quicker. I just had to."
Catcher Del Crandall kidded Spahn along with Burdette and Bob Buhl. But all agreed that Spahn's fast ball was "humming, really buzzing and hopping."
Pitching coach Whitlow Wyatt, who watched the game from the bullpen in centerfield, joined in praising the Braves' great southpaw.
"Maybe, he once was faster, but I don't remember when," Wyatt said. "He was a left-handed Walter Johnson out there. We could see the ball hopping up on the hitters from the bullpen more than 400 feet away."

Phil Middleton Counts Three TDs in Non-Conference Romp

Clintonville — Clintonville play to right end Wes Peters rolled past Waupaca High, covered 40 yards to hike the 44-0, in a non-conference football game here Friday night.

In the closing seconds, third string quarterback Mickey Nelson threw to Ken Shingler on a 17-yard play for the final score.
The Trunkers had total yardage rushing of 323 to 127 for the Comets. Clintonville connected on 10 of 19 passes for 184 yards. Waupaca made good on six of 15 for 77 yards.
The Clints intercepted four passes, the Comets none.
Bennett Passes
Middleton took a pass from Bennett on a play that covered 10 yards later in the first stanza for a 12-0 Clintonville lead.
Middleton grabbed a pitch-out and went about eight yards around right end early in the second period to make it 18-0. The final Trunker TD of the first half came on 7-yard run by Doug Huebner, substitute QB, on a keeper. The Trunkers ran for the point and a 25-0 halftime lead.
After a scoreless third stanza, the winners rolled in 19 marks in the final period. Early in the fourth segment, Middleton intercepted a Waupaca pass on the Clintonville 15 and went 85 yards down the sidelines for his third touchdown. Clintonville passed for the point and the score was 32-0.
Later in the period, a pass

Spahn Fires First No-Hitter Of Great, 287-Win Career

Two Phils Reach Base Via Walks

Milwaukee — Only 12 games are left, but the Milwaukee Braves refuse to be counted out of the National league pennant race. Now southpaw Warren Spahn has done his best to give his teammates a shot in the arm.
Spahn fired the first no-hitter of his brilliant career in blanking the Philadelphia Phillies, 4-0, Friday night as the Braves moved into second place 5 1/2 games behind the league-leading Pittsburgh Pirates.
"Spahn was great, just great," Manager Charlie Dressen said. "We've given the fans plenty of excitement this year, now if we could only win the pennant. Just don't count us out yet."
Slim Hopes Bolstered
The masterpiece by the 39-year-old veteran, coupled with Pittsburgh's loss to Cincinnati, bolstered the Braves' slim flag hopes. Of their last 12 games, Milwaukee has six left with the Pirates.
Spahn was at his superb best in winning his twentieth game for the eleventh time since joining the Braves on a full-time basis in 1946. He has lost only nine this year.

The only control errors by the left-hander, who is poetry in motion on the mound, came in the fourth, when he walked Ken Walters on a 3-2 count, and in the fifth when he passed Cal Neenan on a 3-1 count.
However, shortstop Johnny Logan made a great recovery of a caron off Spahn's glove to start the game's final out. Logan scooped up the ball, hurried his throw and then watched nervously as Joe Adcock made a tremendous stretch to hang on for the third out in the ninth.
Spahn struck out 15, the Braves' high for the season, as he thrilled a crowd of 6,117 — the second smallest since the club moved to Milwaukee in 1953. Rainy weather throughout the day held down the crowd.

At one point, Spahn struck out five straight. Then a batter fouled out and Spahn struck out the next man.
The Braves gave Spahn all the cushion he needed by scoring twice in the fourth. Hank Aaron led off with a single to left and then scored as Al Dark lined a triple over the center fielder's head. Dark scored on a sacrifice fly by Adcock.
Adds Another Run
Milwaukee added another run in the fifth when Spahn singled, raced to third on a

Bays, 'Skins Clash in Final Exhibition Tilt

Starr Expected to Go All the Way At Quarterback

Winston Salem, N.C. — Green Bay's professional football team, boasting a string of five straight exhibition game victories, take on the Washington Redskins in the final pre-season contest here tonight.

Packer Coach Vince Lombardi said he would like to have his squad win its sixth game but his desire for a victory won't prevent him from using every available man on his squad.
Definitely Out
Definitely out of the game is defensive end Jim Temp and it is doubtful whether Lamar McHan will be in shape to play. Temp has a shoulder separation and McHan a leg injury.
With McHan out of action, Bart Starr probably will see all of the action at quarterback. Dale Hackbart, former Wisconsin star, also has been working out at quarterback but has been with the team only a week and probably isn't ready yet.
The Redskins, who have lost all five of their National Football League exhibition games this year, are expected to start M. C. Reynolds.

Maris, Lopez Pace New York With Homers

By The Associated Press
Two little lefties and two big bats have put the New York Yankees a game ahead of Baltimore in their week-end showdown for the American league lead — and perhaps the pennant.
Whitey Ford, struggling through his worst season but still Manager Casey Stengel's No. 1 guy in the clutch, and

Maris
Bobby Shantz choked off the Orioles as the Yankees rode in with a 4-2 victory on home runs by Hector Lopez and Roger Maris Friday night.

It was the opener of a 4-game series at Yankee stadium and once more dropped the Orioles two games behind in the decisive "lost" column.
12 Left to Play
The Birds have a dozen games left to play compared to the Yankees' 14.
The Yankees also moved three games ahead of the third-place Chicago White Sox. The defending champs lost the opener of a 4-game set at Detroit, 4-3.
Cleveland defeated Kansas City, 4-2 and Washington beat Boston, 3-0, on the 5-inning pitching of winner Chuck Stobbs and Ray Moore.
The Yankees, 10-9 for the season over the Orioles and 7-1 at Yankee Stadium, won this one when Shantz came on in the ninth with two out and the bases loaded, gave up a 2-run single by Jim Busby and then struck out Marv Breeding on three pitches. Ford, now 10-9 with a 5-2 record over the Birds, allowed only five hits and didn't walk a man through 8 2-3 innings. Then he was clipped for a single by Walt Droppo and a double by Ron Hansen before giving up a walk to Gus Triandos which loaded the bases.

Maris Hits 39th
Maris' thirty-ninth home run, with a man on in the fifth inning, nailed it for the Yankees against Rookie Steve Barber (10-6), who gave up Lopez' ninth home run in the fourth.
An eighth-inning home run by Harry Chiti-off White Sox relief ace Gerry Staley — cracked a 3-3 tie for the Tigers. The Sox were checked on five hits by Frank Lary (13-15) Early Wynn was the Sox starter, and scored the tying run in the seventh after Ted Kluszewski's short fly to center. But Wynn injured his elbow pitching and Staley (12-8) took over in the seventh.
The Indians' victory, Jim Perry's 17th, was settled by third-inning solo home runs by Mike de LaHoz, Johnny Romano and Tito Francona against Ned Garver (2-9).

Back Trouble Forces Groza To Quit Browns

Cleveland — The Cleveland Browns will go into their 1960 season without "the toe," the man who kicked them into their first National Football league title 10 years ago and who has scored more points than any other Browns player.
The 36-year-old Lou Groza bowed out as a player Friday. Groza has been bothered by back trouble.
He said he felt he wouldn't be much help to the Browns this year, and "it wouldn't be good to hang on."
Coach Paul Brown announced Groza's decision at a Touchdown club luncheon, and the crowd of almost 1,000 gave Groza, an outstanding offensive tackle as well as a placekicker, a standing ovation.

Hopeful Warriors Open as Favorite Against Villanova

Marquette Seeks Fourth Straight Win After Fine Finish in 1959

Milwaukee — (AP) — Marquette's inexperienced but a favorite's role tonight by hopeful football Warriors playing host to Villanova at Marquette stadium.

Terrors Open With 13-0 Win Over Bluejays gave the Jays heart, and they permitted no more serious threats even though Terror regulars played a good portion of the final quarter. Fleet Bob Stumpf touched off the Jays' only sustained offensive showing with an exciting twisting 26-yard punt return from his own 15. Block picked up a first down on the keeper play. Gerhard romped 16 yards on a reverse to the AHS 33.

The Terrors then shut the door and forced a punt by cornerback John Manier playing a leading role. He threw Stumpf for a 4-yard loss and baited down a Gerhard pass.

Other defensive standouts for AHS included Ed Felauer, John Hohman and Larry Feistel up front and line-backers Miringoff, Hietpas and Kent Anderson.

Leads Attack
Hietpas belted his way to 80 yards in 14 carries to head the attack.

Menasha's speedy half-backs posed the greatest threat to the invaders. And, Stumpf gave the defense some troubled moments in the second half when he began running the split-T option.

On defense for Menasha, Lavalie, Tom Leopold, Steve Bachhuber and Bill Prange gave excellent accounts of themselves.

Donald Campbell's $4,500,000 racing car, Bluebird II, looked like this after it tipped over three times at more than 300 miles per hour in a test run at Bonneville Salt Flats, Utah. Campbell, British speed king, escaped with only minor injuries and said he wants to try again. Mechanics said it may take months to fix the car. Campbell was after the world speed record of 394 miles per hour.

Open Probe to Determine Cause of Campbell's Crash

Bonneville Salt Flats, Utah —P—Specialists started their probe today of the wreckage of the 4,250 horsepower Bluebird II racer which crashed at 300 miles per hour Friday and injured driver Donald Campbell.

The accident happened 25 years to the day after Campbell's famous racing father, the late Sir Malcolm Campbell, became the first man to pass 300 m.p.h. on this same salt.

Campbell was making trial runs in the 30-foot streamliner building up to an attempt to crack the world mark of 394 m.p.h. set by the late John Cobb of England in 1947.

The 39-year-old Englishman suffered bruises, cuts and a possible concussion. He was hospitalized at Tooele, Utah, 94 miles east of here.

There will be no more racing for Campbell this year. He will be hospitalized for at least three days and the car is mangled beyond repair.

"We do not know what caused the accident," said Peter Carr, project chief of the Bluebird record attempt.

Somewhere Beneath This stack of football players is Appleton's Kent Anderson, the fullback who scored the first touchdown of Friday night's game in Menasha. He went over from one yard out. The Terrors went on to win, 13-0. Identifiable Bluejays are Tom Leopold (50) and Steve Bachhuber (51). Terror quarterback Dick Bloomer is visible in the center back-ground.

hit to right by Billy Bruton and scored on Eddie Mathews line shot to right center. The final run was scored in the seventh as Bruton singled, stole second and scored on a hit through the middle by Del Crandall.

It was the third no-hitter of the season, all in the NL, and matched the August 18 performance of Lew Burdette, Spahn's roommate, against Philadelphia.

Pitching in an era of the lively ball, short fences and muscle guys, Spahn has won 287 games, 51 of them shutouts. There have been lefties who have won more and who have pitched more shutouts. But no National league lefthander has done it, and no major league southpaw ever has won 20 in 11 seasons.

The only left-handers who won more than Spahn were Ed Plank (325) and Bob Lefty Grove (300), both of whom did it in 17 American league seasons. Spahn, now 39 and topped only by immortals Cy Young, Christy Mathewson and Walter Johnson (all right-handers) in 20-victory seasons, has built his winning total in 16 years — 15, when you consider he was in only four games, for a total of 16 innings, as a rookie in 1942 with the old Boston Braves.

'Mudcat' Grant Suspended for Season After Racial Flare-Up

Cleveland—(AP) — Jim "Mudcat" Grant, Cleveland pitcher, was suspended — without pay — for the rest of the season by Manager Jimmie Dykes Friday night when he walked off the field.

The departure during the seventh against Kansas City by Grant, a Negro, came after an argument in the bullpen with Coach Ted Wilks, who called him a "black so-and-so." Wilks was not available for comment.

Dykes said he first learned of the walkout when he called Wilks in the bullpen in the second inning to have Grant warm up. Wilks told the manager that there had been an argument and that Grant had left.

Makes Remark
"It seems that Grant made some remark about what a lousy country this is while the national anthem was being played," Dykes said. "Wilks answered him back and Grant said, 'I don't have to take that from anybody,' and took off."

Dykes said he walked from the dugout to the clubhouse during the second inning to see Grant, but the pitcher had already left the stadium. "I suspended him because he didn't report to me," the manager explained. "There

Pitching
Warren Spahn, Braves, pitched his first no-hitter and became first to win 20 in majors this season, striking out 15 and walking 2 in 4-0 victory over Phils that lifted Braves into second place. It was his 20th victory, giving him 11 seasons of 20 or more, and 15th first shutout in a 15-year career.

Youthful Pacifists Attempt Vainly to Disrupt Ceremonies

Newport News, Va.—A third Polaris-firing nuclear submarine became a unit of the U.S. navy here yesterday in ceremonies which youthful pacifists tried vainly to disrupt.

The coast guard, on the alert for just such trouble, hauled away six would-be demonstrators who approached by boat while the USS Robert E. Lee was being commissioned as part of the fleet at the Newport News shipyard.

The demonstrators were members of the self-styled committee for non-violent action.

Only a period of outfitting and a shakedown cruise now remain before the Robert E. Lee joins her sister submarines, the George Washington and the Patrick Henry, on active duty.

The multi-million-dollar sub, launched eight months ago, will be equipped with 16 Polaris missiles. She has a submerged displacement of about 6,700 tons. Her commanding officer is Cmdr. Reuben F. Woodall.

Vice Adm. Fitzhugh Lee, deputy commander in chief of the Atlantic fleet, told 1,000 persons at the commissioning ceremony that the submarine ton Spert, Rt. 2, Appleton, and its missiles "can be a son, Wilmer, at home, two priceless sword for America, and those who fight with her" in the free world's struggle against "communist imperialism."

Ike Working on Address to UN

Thurmont, Md.—President Eisenhower planned an early round of golf today while weekend at his Camp David retreat in Maryland's Catoctin mountains.

Press Sec. James C. Hagerly said the president also will work on the important speech he is to deliver to the United Nations general assembly in New York next Thursday.

President and Mrs. Eisenhower headed for the Camp David hideaway yesterday after he completed the first part of an annual medical checkup at Walter Reed army hospital in Washington.

The president, who turns 70 next month, said he felt fine. His doctors agreed that he's in good health.

Lodge Approves of Khrushchev UN Visit

Miami Beach —A Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev's coming visit to the United Nations suits former U.N. Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge just fine.

"What better place to refute propaganda than the U.N.?" "The Republican vice presidential candidate asked a more than capacity audience at the Miami Beach auditorium last night. "It is a wonderful place to get up quickly with the facts."

However, Lodge gave strong backing to plans to restrict the Russian leader to Manhattan during his visit.

"How could anyone expect us to treat him like a bosom friend when he has treated us so?" Lodge inquired.

He cited Khrushchev's scuttling of the summit meeting in state at the Mueller Funeral home, Winneconne Sunday afternoon and evening, downing of the U. S. RB47 at 9:15 a.m. and at St. Thomas, town of Poygan at 10 a.m. Interment parish cemetery. Rev. John Quigley officiating. Rosary will be recited at

Propaganda War Brought To Mass Media

U. S. Should Have Equal Time to Answer Nikita

BY DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington — Will the American people have "equal time" on the television and radio to reply to Nikita Khrushchev?

The Moscow radio is telling the world that the Soviet premier has been "deluged" with invitations from television and broadcasting organizations in this country to speak next week while he is in New York City.

The principle of "equal time" has become a symbol of fair play in political debate in this country. Congress security council, and so does have by law provided that the candidates of the two major parties must be given equal time over the air. It is equal-ly important that in the mid-dle of a political campaign people, this would open the some visitor from a foreign to an inquiry as to who country, whose words are de-signed to influence the course line in many countries now of the presidential contest, members of the U.N. it would shall not be permitted to bring up an interesting ques-tion without a rebuttal from an authoritative American source.

The broadcasting and tele-vision companies naturally do not like to give up time un-necessarily, and they usually like to fit rebuttal programs into schedules at their own convenience. But in a case as vital to the interest of the United States as an answer to the propaganda campaign states which accept the ob- carried on by Nikita Khrush- chev, it is essential that the sent charter and, in the jud- reply program be put on to ment of the organization, are the same audience and im- mediately after the Soviet these obligations." But the ject of red China's admission Soviet Union actually made to the security council is rais- ing war on a United Nations mil- itary force in Korea from 1950 1951 the United Nations gen- eral assembly, by formal resolution, declared red Chi- na an aggressor in the Kor- ean war, in which many lives were lost by U.N. countries, including nearly 35,000 Americans.

Immediate Answer
The broadcasting and tele- vision companies may invite to 1953 by supplying arms to the North Korean and red Chinese armies. This is cer- tainly not in any sense a war, or carrying out the obli- gations of the charter. There, "peace - loving" or such a dramatic rejoinder, provided it followed directly! Maybe these are some of after Mr. Khrushchev's ap- pearance.

It is necessary that the American people be told in- stantly of the deceptions and false statements the Soviet premier is bound to make. It isn't enough to arrange for unofficial persons to com- ment on the Soviet premier's talks. The American people will wish to get the United States government's own point of view. It would be a 10-strike if the Secre- tary of State Christian Her- ter would agree to make an answer immediately after Ni- kita Khrushchev speaks.

Red China
It is believed that the So- viet premier will dwell upon the demand for admission of red China into the United Na- tions. It has been reported that the addition of new coun- tries in Africa — 15 have been approved by the securi- ty council for admission — will tip the voting balance in favor of the Soviets, and that this will enable them to force the entrance of red China in- to the U.N.
Actually, the United Na- tions general assembly can- vote to approve the admis- sion of new members only after the security council has formally recommended such time.

The United States pos- sesses a veto power in the bate in this country. Congress security council, and so does have by law provided that the candidates of the two major parties must be given equal time over the air. It is equal-ly important that in the mid-dle of a political campaign people, this would open the some visitor from a foreign to an inquiry as to who country, whose words are de-signed to influence the course line in many countries now of the presidential contest, members of the U.N. it would shall not be permitted to bring up an interesting ques-tion without a rebuttal from an authoritative American source.

Role in Korea
The charter, after desig- nating the permanent mem- bers, says "membership in vital to the interest of the United States as an answer to the propaganda campaign states which accept the ob- ligations contained in the pre- chev, it is essential that the sent charter and, in the jud- reply program be put on to ment of the organization, are the same audience and im- mediately after the Soviet these obligations." But the ject of red China's admission Soviet Union actually made to the security council is rais- ing war on a United Nations mil- itary force in Korea from 1950 1951 the United Nations gen- eral assembly, by formal resolution, declared red Chi- na an aggressor in the Kor- ean war, in which many lives were lost by U.N. countries, including nearly 35,000 Americans.

Efficiency Caught Up to Lumbering Iron Horse; Forced It Out of Work

BY ROY F. VALITCHKA II

Post-Crescent Staff Writer

"There is no place a diesel locomotive can go that a steam locomotive couldn't go," an official of the Green Bay and Western railroad says.

Efficiency just caught up to the big steam engines and forced them out of work.

The regular chug-chug of a steam freight or the steady roar of a passenger train has been replaced by the throaty drone of a diesel engine.

The backbreaking job of coaling the white hot boilers of a steam engine no longer exists.

Switched to Siding

Progress and demands of the new industrial age have switched the story of the Green Bay and Western rail- road's steam engines and the men who fed the iron horses to a little used siding. There now is only the story of days gone by.

Diesel units pull from 100 to 150 cars along the 214-mile Green Bay-Winona, Minn., run in about 12 hours.

Last of series

Two or three diesel units can be hooked together and run by one crew in the lead train. The old steam engine required a crew for each unit in a series.

One Through Freight

One through freight runs daily from Green Bay, the terminal point, to Winona. Another through freight runs every other day. A way freight, one which switches cars to sidings, travels the route daily.

No passenger trains have operated along the line since 1945.

The railroad has the distinction of being the first road in Wisconsin to use diesel-electric power in switching operations. The line has been dieselized since 1950. Diesel engines are used to run power plants for large electric motors which in turn run the engines.

2-Way Radio Units

In July, 1956, 2-way radios were installed on road equip- ment and in all switching op- erations in Green Bay on the line's 17 engines.

Westbound traffic con- sists of coal, oil, automo- biles, automotive parts and other manufactured prod- ucts. Eastbound traffic in- cludes lumber, flour, agri- cultural products, paper, cheese and other goods.

At Kewaunee the line con- nects with the Ann Arbor Railroad and the Chesapeake and Ohio railroad, lines oper- ating scheduled car ferry service across Lake Michigan to Frankfort and Ludington, connecting with rail lines of those companies east to De- troit.

Vital Bridge Traffic

The Green Bay and West- ern operates as a traffic link extending the ferry service through Kewaunee to the west.

Importance of the Kewa- nee route to the G. B. & W. is reflected in traffic han- dled. About 60 per cent of the company's traffic is on this route, with manufactured and miscellaneous items account- ing for 55 to 60 per cent of its total revenue.

The company, as a result of its Kewaunee connections, has literally become a bridge line.

To secure bridge traffic, of- fices are maintained in Buf- falo, Chicago, Portland, Pitts- burgh, Detroit, Minnesota, New York, San Francisco and Seattle.

Resort Owners Voice Opposition To Special Tax

Madison — Resort owners told members of the gov- ernor's blue ribbon tax study commission Wednesday that ant operators also objected to a special sales tax proposed for their business would be a crippling blow.

Bob Griffith of Hayward, Wisconsin Hotel association president of the Resort Own- ers Association of Wisconsin, told the commission's tax study subcommittee that the re- in motel rates is a serious sort industry this year has a matter.

Elmer Conforti of Milwau- low 1958. He said a three per cent tax on resorts would of the Wisconsin Restaurant drive more tourists and va- cationers to other states. Hotel, motel and restaur- ant operators also objected to a special sales tax proposed for their business would be a crippling blow.
John Gerlach of Madison, Wisconsin Hotel association executive secretary of the said his group would not op- pose a general sales tax if it would reduce property tax- es but that a special tax on as little as 50 cents hotels was discriminatory.
